The file contains your innate predispositions – your strengths and weaknesses. Don't dwell on weaknesses – build on your strengths using favorable horoscope factors, – it's more efficient. Fate will do everything to help you temper your character.

If you grew up without father or mother, but they're mentioned in the natal chart, then the heredity of your parents will appear through these interpretations, as well as the influence of other guardians (grandparents, stepmother, stepfather, godparents)

1.1. Cosmogram

Cosmogram is a unique imprint of planets in the sky at the moment of your birth. The planets are arranged as if you were looking at them from Earth:

- rising planets are located near to ASC point (above the horizon)
- planets in nadir are near to IC
- setting planets are near to DSC (beyond the horizon)
- planets at zenith are near to MC

See details in section Planetary coordinates

1.2. Lunar day

16th Lunar day (Waning moon)

Symbol: Pigeon, butterfly

Mineral: spinel, tourmaline, charoite, emerald, pearl

A person born on the 16th day of the lunar cycle is a dreamer who knows how to enjoy life. You are not inclined to judge people. You feel and understand animals well, and have a love for the plant world. Your health will be good, and your life will be long and rich. In general, your activity is fruitful, but sometimes you have not enough sanity. Learn to control your instincts and passions so that they don't devastate you. Avoid useless spiritual searches that can nullify your work results.

1.3. Ascendant degree

Ascendant degree is a zodiac degree that was rising above the horizon at the moment of your birth. This degree generally defines your abilities and has a visual image:

Large metal ball; bright colored reflections are visible in it (symbol of Growth)

You were born under one of the best degrees, which predicts material and spiritual wealth, a successful life and prosperity. There is a chance to achieve fame, universal respect and recognition. You will reach a high intellectual level and, as an adherent of the scientific approach, will be able to shed light on many unclear issues and solve many complex problems. In addition, high spheres of spirituality will become available to you, and, adhering to the views of an esoteric school, you will use its non-traditional knowledge in your work.

1.6. Spheres of life

The Diagram shows your innate abilities, your baggage and experience with which you came into the world. Whether it works for you or not, time will tell. In any case, this is the starting point of your ship, on which you will sail through the sea of destiny and realize your mission.

Areas of life listed here are initially important to you. Even if your priorities change in the future, the factors indicated in the diagram will remain valid. The longer the bar, the more thoughts and events will be associated with it:

- Self-affirmation is your main life mission. It implies expertise, publicity, a personal brand, the ability to speak on your own behalf (not as a team representative)

The important areas of your life are described in more detail in the section Personality realization

1.7. Your mission

- Purpose of your Spirit: transform and experience
- Purpose of your Soul: learn and build connections
- Purpose of your Mind: learn and go beyond
- Purpose of your Love: concentrate and develop
- Purpose of your Power: evaluate and judge fairly

1.8. Good luck symbols

- Natal number – 7: Seven symbolizes the mystery and human psyche, as well as the process of knowledge, the path of exploration of everything unknown and invisible. It combines the integrity of 1 with the ideality of 6, and thus forms its own structure: 7 major planets, 7 days of the week, 7 notes of the scale, 7 colors of the rainbow, - therefore it is in harmony with nature. Seven is a symbol of Neptune.

You are a person of a compliant nature, inclined spiritually and philosophically. You are very subtle, merciful, sensitive to the mood of others. You don't accept quarrels and conflicts; you sympathize with people with all your heart. There may be a desire to take up music or get a job in a social service. You get along well with people whose birth number is 2.

Great ideas are often born in your mind, but you follow through rarely and have difficulty making decisions. Avoid the tendency to gamble, otherwise your money will run out and you won't achieve a stable financial situation.

Physically, your body is fragile, you don't have as much strength as others.

- Lucky number: 3, 8, 12. According to Kabbalah, lucky numbers have a special vibration, so it makes sense to rely on them when choosing some date, duration, or any other number
- Favorable colors: purple, violet, silver, black and their contrasting combinations
- Mascot: soaring eagle
- Amulet: serpentine ring or bracelet
- Favorable stones: hematite (bloodstone), garnet, pyrite
- Favorable metals: mercury

Your psychotype

Psychotype is a generalized image of people born near Wednesday, December 13, 1989. It describes you as a representative of your generation not a unique individual. A more accurate and personalized description of your nature is given in other sections

2.1. Personality, conscious

You are a person who is passionately involved in the world around you and is convinced that the world is given to us to transform it: «I am the master of life, an exceptional person with unique knowledge, capable of changing something».

Your innate features:

- the ability to transform your spirit and adapt to sudden changes,
- ease of access to knowledge accumulated by past generations and other people,
- the desire to try what others are afraid of.

Waywardness

You are a secular, open person for whom external impressions are important. However, it is difficult for you to be pleasant with everyone, because you are guided mainly by your own desires and tastes. You behave capriciously, persistently and a little rudely. You feel a lot of strength and energy, so you are capable of decisive actions (and sometimes even violence - if you lose control and react to the obstacles too violently).

Marginal

You have a very contradictory nature. And it's not surprising if you find yourself in the energetic center of events (you are drawn there unconsciously). You are a hurricane in miniature: passion, impetuosity and the instinct of survival are naturally manifested in your consciousness and actions. You become calm only for a short time, because you, more than others, are characterized by uncompromisingness and a tendency to go to extremes: «All or nothing!»

Confidence

You don't have a belief in fate, because you're a creator of your own destiny. You will seek the truth persistently and transform yourself throughout your life, without being afraid to change and test yourself. A strong will and desire to take risks will encourage you to fight for your success passionately. But along the way, you will make a few enemies, because you are an individualist who despises public opinion and meaningless traditions that are performed by people formally, just out of inertia. You would prefer to keep up with the times: «Something new? Need to try!...» Impatience and courage may lead you to a dangerous irrevocable decision, but you will believe in what you want to achieve and won't become a toy in the wrong hands. You will spare no effort in the race for your success, exhausting yourself physically and mentally. You will always win over weak and conservative people. And, being convinced that "end justifies the means", you will easily sacrifice things and relationships that you consider useless and irrelevant.

Fearlessness

You have incredible curiosity and an unquenchable spark. You cope with extreme conditions better than others. You know how to be persistent during a period of change and hold on until the end, despite the sacrifices (and often thanks to them, because you enjoy getting rid of what bothers you). You'll achieve your goal thanks to the ability to overcome your fear. You will not confuse when facing danger, - you'll be able to keep your spirits up. It's unlikely that any emergency situation will truly frighten you.

Some force moves you tirelessly, urging you to go forward and pass by unnecessary things. You will not suffer from nostalgia for a long time, you will not dwell on the past. You will simply forget a lot of what happened before, cut it off from your mind. The only thing you need to learn is to finish what you start, and not quit halfway to look for new opportunities.

Transformation

Despite your ardor, you are a deep and experienced person who gives life a unique, almost mystical meaning: "Life is reality and anticipation, and the grave is not its only result". You don't know the fear of death, because you, like no one else, have already learned a mystical understanding of reincarnation: «Die but be alive!» Throughout your life you'll be "die and rise again" repeatedly, walk along the edge, experiencing transcendental sensations; therefore, most everyday changes will seem just banal and surmountable easily to you. It is fearlessness and good body resistance that will push you to test yourself. You will learn to get strength for creativity and regeneration from everything that surrounds you. Your achievements may adjoin on risk, sometimes on miracle.

Optimism

You are a good warrior who is characterized by courage and ability to inspire others by your own actions, not by chatter. Fortune will open new horizons for you when there seems to be no way out. And thanks to this luck, you will give an impression of being a person who is full of love for life and is not afraid of danger. You'll adapt to a new environment easily and begin to grasp the essence of new phenomena quickly. You won't waste time on trifles; you'd prefer to live for today rather than yesterday. Self-assertion is an integral part of your nature, so you will crave responsibility, dramatization and self-denial.

Consumer

Despite your courage and self-confidence, you cannot be called a person who achieves a goal only through your own efforts. Although you will often consider your success to be your own merit. You have an amazing ability to get ahead thanks to others (and at the expense of others): "I need a springboard to jump, I need a run-up to fly". However, it would be rude and wrong to say that you are not capable of anything yourself, - this is not true. But the main concept of your personality is to act contrary to others, not according to your own motive. You need a foundation from which you can build, to which you can oppose some idea, in order to do it in your own way, redo it.

You will learn the real taste of life in the process of struggle and by overcoming trials. Even if you don't seek changes actively, they will still accompany you, and you will certainly use the benefits of these reforms for your personal purposes. This is your main advantage - the ability to go through a crisis with minimal losses, while learning from other people's mistakes, not from your own ones.

Destiny

Your destiny will often depend on unforeseen circumstances and extreme situations. In youth, frequent unrest and change are expected until your personality develops and becomes stronger. Success will come to you after you reach 30 years old.

Health

Your weak point is the reproductive system. Most diseases arise from excess and risk. You are temperamental person, and this always cause overexertion. Maintain hygiene and moderation in eating and drinking.

Woman

She has a strong temper and turbulent emotions. She's active, curious, loves to fight and doesn't lose heart when overcoming difficulties. She's willful, with a masculine mentality and a large reserve of unbridled energy. She's extremely hardy and resistant to change. She's efficient, knows how to overcome bouts of laziness and fight for the implementation of her plans. She doesn't whine if she needs to adapt to new circumstances: "I'll survive everything. I'll find a way to return everything, because there is always tomorrow ahead". She has no equal person in ambition and enthusiasm. The word "defeat" is not in her vocabulary.

2.2. Your father's perception

You'll perceive your father more sharply than he really is - as a person who is used to looking forward and doesn't look back. He thirsts for progress and is able to part with outdated things without regret, as well as with people who don't want to develop. If you don't want to think in his terms, he'll immediately move away. He's not afraid to act rashly, so you must to behave with him carefully. By and large, nothing keeps him close to you. Once, on a wonderful day he can quit everything and start a new life. But in terms of development and overcoming difficulties, he is a good example to follow.

2.3. Your mother's perception

In your perception, this is a crafty, practical, calculating woman. She has a lot of appearances, doesn't mince words and can discuss at length any topics that don't concern her personally. She's very inquisitive, looking for benefits and opportunities everywhere. At times you will feel older and more mature than her because she tends to be naive and doesn't seem to mature as time goes by. However, the youth of her soul helps her relate to life more easily.

2.4. Emotions, subconscious

«My method is to take the utmost trouble to find the right thing to say, and then to say it with the utmost levity».

Bernard Shaw

Even if you look unhurried and categorical, your soul is more mobile, relaxed and changeable, completely devoid of conventions and prejudices. You are tireless in your perception of the world, and your mind wins over emotions. A lively, clear mind will give you the subconscious ability to reason logically and build models, turn an abstract idea into a mathematical formula, and carry out voluminous mental work based only on the content (you will come up with the details yourself). Your brain has an inexhaustible curiosity that will drive you to analyze everything (including yourself), break down components and put them back together, and then move on to the next thing.

You are most impressed by current events, not past ones. And these internal experiences cover many areas at once, so they don't have much depth. Your emotional life is enlivened by variety and novelty rather than drama. You can be delighted by even fleeting contact with a person, or some spontaneous acquaintance and action. But you are not as emotional as people might think, because a quick change of your mood doesn't mean the depth of impressions. However, changing emotions can quickly drain your strength and cause nervous tension. Therefore, it's useful to sometimes turn off your brain and concentrate on one thing, so that your mental impulses calm down and harmonize.

Contact with people is necessary for you, so you will learn to please them and even resort to some tricks for the sake of your social security. You'll gain popularity thanks to your ability to be helpful. But, even if you have many friends, you don't trust your innermost thoughts to anyone, - you'll just turn on the indifference mode as a defense mechanism against someone else's criticism and irony.

In matters of the soul, you would rather be funny than honest and inspiring. By nature, you are an unsurpassed sophist, capable of embellishing any situation and putting a good face on a bad game. The main thing for you is a minimum of hassle: if the matter seems to be burdensome, you will find the most sophisticated excuses just not to deal with it.

Deep down, you like to imagine yourself as a great thinker and broadcaster, whose words are listened to by everyone around you. But to become an intellectual of this level, you need to learn to value other people's trust and be less disingenuous.

2.5. Way of thinking

The desire to see the world wider than it is determines your way of thinking: you don't know how to think in small categories and often avoid specifics; but when it comes to something global, you operate with big ideas calmly. Your main talent is to generalize, draw conclusions, study statistics, come up with a great mission for yourself.

World civilization, in your opinion, is nothing more than the result of human thought and action. You are quick-witted and endowed with a quick mind. A lot of ideas constantly come to your mind. Having accumulated a sufficient amount of knowledge, you'll begin to more easily perceive new information and then disseminate it. You'll be ready to expand your horizons endlessly, read new literature, learn a foreign language and eagerly grab onto everything. Even without special education, you'll be well versed in the world of abstract concepts. But the search for truth looks very exotic in your performance.

2.6. Communication skills

Even if you are accustomed to discipline and follow certain life rules, when it comes to communication, you become less constrained and begin to judge everything more freely and casually. In conversation, you are generous with your words and prone to exaggeration (not to deception). You are a pleasant conversationalist - cheerful, resourceful, sincere, with a sense of humor. You know how to attract people with you. They will trust you and perceive you as a sociable, friendly person. You will have a calming effect on them if you act naturally: "You don't seem to be bothered by the worries of reality".

The disadvantage of your communication is that you are completely devoid of tact (although you are convinced of the opposite). You are too straightforward in your manners and speech, which, like a flying arrow, hits the target. You express your opinion without regard to anything ("What the heart thinks, the tongue speaks"). You don't always choose your words, you talk a lot and uncontrollably (your tongue is out of control), you experience difficulties in conducting a dialogue (after your statements you are not always ready to listen to the other person). Being a keen observer of life, you cannot remain silent about what is happening. But your honesty sometimes hurts people and harms you. Your criticism will be useful only if you don't express it unceremoniously, directly.

By nature you are decent and friendly; you love society and don't set special boundaries in communication. You treat gently everyone you like. You can become the life of the party, because you love to act as host and treat people generously. When you are in a good mood, you radiate incredible warmth and enthusiasm. You don't like ordinary people; you prefer high society, exotic and colorful persons from a foreign circle, who have seen the world. In fact, it's easier for you to make contact with people you don't know well, but it'll be more difficult for you to communicate with your loved ones (you make a different impression on your family and strangers).

Despite your openness and straightforwardness, you know how to be gallant. Sometimes you are arrogant in communication, but you'll always come to the aid of those who need it. At times you feel lonely (when you are disappointed in life's ideals). But you continue to believe in love and friendship even after you have had a bad experience (you tend to trust people again and again). Social approval is extremely important to you, and you are quite vulnerable in this sense. But you put up with people easily and, thanks to your tolerance, get along well with them. You will always strive to be among the majority, therefore, when organizing some business, you'll try to adapt to everyone.

2.7. Attitude to work

You are a dexterous, hard-working, energetic maximalist with broad, far-sighted thinking. The ability to see the future will help you achieve success, become an authority and take a prominent position. In a fit of enthusiasm, you can work until exhaustion. You look for the slightest benefit in your work and expect others to appreciate it. You won't engage in activities in which you see no meaning: "To work for the sake of the work is meaningless".

When dealing with you, your colleagues should be patient: monotonous activity is painful for you. To be realized, you need to show all your passion and love for scaling, to use your energy for solving more and more new problems (developing ad infinitum). You value not work, but knowledge and adventure, so you are unlikely to be happy sitting in the office, - you'd prefer to go on business trips, visit branches, and establish connections with partners from other regions and countries.

2.8. Working conditions

You have an innate affinity for foreign languages. Many people of your type are polyglots and workaholics.

What's right for you?

- new areas of activity, border areas of knowledge, large-scale projects, professions requiring a breadth of approach;
- a work in a large team, in a large multinational company solving global issues;
- a work focused on foreign partners and studying other cultures. Linguist, journalist, teacher, historian, scientist;
- positive genres of art;
- sport of great achievements;
- philosopher, thinker, priest, spiritual teacher, missionary;
- politician, generalissimo, manager, representative person;
- technician, orderly, veterinarian, fur breeder;
- businessman, sales agent. Advertising related work;
- traveler, sailor, adventurer

What doesn't suit you?

- small-scale companies, projects that cannot be scaled;
- office work;
- cooking

2.9. Feelings

You are a hidden romantic, however you adhere to all kinds of conventions, because you need reliability and stability of feelings. You don't so much control your attraction to the opposite sex as you make it pragmatic. In everything related to love, you are wise and prudent beyond your years. You respect the moral standards of society and rarely deviate from them: your sensual reactions are fully consistent with generally accepted norms, and you also will not tolerate liberties from your partner.

Since your feelings strongly depend on the level of ambition and security, you won't be torn between love and self-expression, - both of them will be dedicated to the same goal. In love, you will instinctively choose the right path, act with restraint, without exposing yourself to danger and trying not to hurt the feelings of other people.

2.10. Appearance

You pay a lot of attention to your appearance, you love majesty and grace, and don't approve of extravagance and flashy tones. In clothing style, you tend to be restrained, strict and formal; you prefer cool colors and metallic decorations. If you have complexes about your body, you will carefully hide your flaws. Looking elegant is more important to you than looking relaxed. People of your type wear black clothes more often than others.

Woman

Sooner or later she will love to wear business suits to look like a businesswoman and just a self-respecting person.

2.11. Love

Even if you are open and sociable person in everyday life, when it comes to feelings, it becomes difficult to get close to you. You are not an experimenter in love; you don't like to play with emotions; you behave pragmatically and withdrawn. You find it difficult to express the tenderness you feel, so you suppress your emotional impulses.

At first glance, you are cold and calculating, but this is just an attempt to protect yourself due to the fear of being rejected. For the same reason, you don't like to sort things out. In love relationships you are distinguished by calmness, confidence and only serious intentions. You are unlikely to approach the partner if you are not sure about him.

Life with you is not easy because of many self-restraints and demands. Romantic relationships will develop slowly and strainedly. But it is criticality in choosing a partner that will make your couple successful. You may like a person with a large age difference: you'll look for a more mature, experienced partner and are unlikely to connect your life with someone who doesn't meet the standard you have set (has a lower social position and has achieved little in his/her life).

Not being the most ardent lover, you have difficulty falling in love, but, nevertheless, you always strive for love. If you find your ideal, you will blossom in your euphoria and carry these feelings throughout your life, maintaining stability in relationships and showing perseverance.

Woman

She is amorous, but strict in maintaining decorum, therefore she experiences contradictions between passion and the possibility of satisfying it. She's prone to melancholy in a state of loneliness: "Nobody loves me..." Excessive demands prevent her from finding a partner who suits all parameters. In relationships, she values consistency. She feels confident in love only if the man's intentions are serious. He must pass a tough exam to win her heart. She just tells him: "Become the way I want you to be!", but if he doesn't accept her conditions, then she'll reject him. In case of personal failures, she believes that it was SHE who was unlucky, that SHE was offended and misunderstood.

She's capable of being independent, so she may not feel any attraction to men at all. In this case, it's not easy to make love to her: too much of a barrier has been erected in front of her admirers. She'll have to be taken by siege, armed with some advantage; or touch a thin string of her soul. You won't confuse her with just charm and flattery. She never indulges in love affairs recklessly. She won't go to bed with man without flirt (unless the bed is not the only her goal).

2.12. Your ideal man

You'll be happy with a practical man who doesn't need any help or support: and isn't divorced from reality. If he is serious, purposeful, unemotional, but knows what he wants, then he is right for you. He may be significantly older than you, but this is not a problem, - the main thing is that he holds a leadership or administrative position. Women of your type are delighted by white collar workers in formal suits.

You are chic on the outside and prudent on the inside. Sometimes you look at men so closely that you get tired of it. But caution in love choice is paramount. You are too clever to do stupid things, to be led by emotions, to look funny. You care for your reputation more than anything else. Did you like someone? - Well, first you need to find out: "Is he married? Where does he work? How much does he earn? Does he go fishing on weekends? Could he have a mercantile interest in me?" So, you will calculate a hundred steps forward and only then take a small step towards him. But first, you'll wait until he heads in your direction. You are a spectacular but cold woman, especially at the first meeting. You need time to open up and show your temperament. A lot of time.

A sensitive, patient, mysterious partner who will make you worry will suit you. He may not be a knight in shining armor, but at least a wealthy businessman with an ironic smile, restrained in his words and generous in his actions. Sexual experience? - Welcome! Sense of humor? - "Yes, but not at me". Has a car, apartment and social status? - This is a super set that will make your head spin. Well, in terms of behavior, he should be strong in spirit and body, domineering, ambitious, influential, reserved; even if he's secretive. All his actions must be deliberate and consistent, and his emotions must be under control. Aggression is acceptable only as a defense.

Your position becomes tenuous rarely due to an excess of hormones. You know how to control yourself, that's why you like men who are specific and reasonable. You'll want to meet an accomplished and serious-minded partner, loving and devoted in relationships, desirable and gentle in sex. He'll become even more successful with you if he repeats more often: "You're my only love".

A workaholic who is ready to burn out for the sake of his career? - That's good. Because you are ready to wait for him as long as necessary. Like Assol, who anxiously waits for her lover... at the bus stop, at the entrance, at a table in a cafe or sitting by the window in the bedroom. The main thing is to be sure that he loves you and will do everything to keep you together. You'll even agree to become his shadow, just to know that everything is not in vain.

You won't like a man without taste, style and his own opinion. An overly temperamental and obscenely rich superman will not inspire you either. Careless, ill-mannered and overly well-fed? - You won't even look in his direction. No slurping at lunch, meaningless remarks and dirty socks.

2.13. Attitude to family

Your practicality will manifest itself mainly in love, which you will consider as a deal: "I can marry for love, but money will definitely not be superfluous". Sometimes money reinforces your love, but the main thing is that you both have common life goals, otherwise you won't be happy together.

Woman

She is characterized by ambition in love, and if she doesn't find an ambitious man, she will immerse in work entirely. She's less inclined to family life than other women. The later she gets married, the happier her marriage will be. She's demanding in relationships, adheres to established principles, cannot tolerate laziness, and honors regularity and order. Being a thrifty wife, she is economical and manages the house skillfully. But she's cold in emotions, because... believes that she expresses her love by performing household chores.

She's looking for an influential and practical husband. She never grumbles at him for slow progress, because... understands that success is the result of a hard work.

2.14. Fidelity

Before 30 years old you tend to fidelity: you'll be modest and will primarily care about your personal success, not love affairs.

In marriage you tend to fidelity too, especially before 35 years old. You will force yourself to walk along the narrow path of limitations. You will cheating partner only to punish him/her for his/her mistake.

Woman

She doesn't forgive faithlessness and offences to her partner.

2.15. Women in your life

You'll meet many ambitious, practical women who always live for some purpose, and don't passively go along with whatever happens. Even if they don't reach the top social position, they'll still be able to boast of some achievements. People will have more respect for them than love.

2.16. Vital activity

You are an impressionable but balanced person. Hostility, competition and anger don't motivate you or affect your self-esteem. Your incentive to action is provided by completely different features and circumstances: for example, your desire to get to know another person better, establish an effective partnership and defuse a conflict environment. That is, your activity is more communicative than deedful. Outside of communication, you are rather lazy and not inclined to spend extra effort: «If only it looked like something». In this regard, there is more of a craving for demagoguery than for real action.

During activity, your energy is usually directed outward: you are not focused on yourself, but strive for communication (sometimes even too persistently). If necessary, you can deviate from the intended path so as not to be alone. When meeting people, you are ready to show your charm and concern, but you can also start a useless conversation (just to keep the dialogue going). If communication develops into an argument, then you will begin to express a lot of value judgments and even impose your opinion, - this is a kind of attempt to protect yourself from "enslavement", to veil your softness, to convince everyone of your independence. It's difficult to argue with you and catch you at your word: you are either easy-going, like a lamb, or furious, like a wasp. But your advantage is that in practice you are still inclined to cooperate with people.

To have more certainty in your actions, get rid of excessive conformism, which deprives you of your own opinion. Treat people easier. Achieve true kinship of souls with those you are interested in. Try to overcome extremes in relationships - avoid complete capitulation of your beliefs and absolute self-affirmation at the expense of others. You will show your best features if you begin to build mutually beneficial connections with people.

2.17. Men in your life

There will be many refined men in your environment who give the impression of true gentlemen. They don't have conflicts and help others to harmonize the situation around them. There is little egoism in them, because they are focused on other people: they pay close attention to those around them, understand motives of their behavior well. There are few leaders among them, but many talented and enterprising men.

2.18. Sport

The overall vitality of your body is moderate, the amount of energy is below normal. Due to your reluctance to exert yourself too much, you are unlikely to fall in love with sports wholeheartedly; you would rather take up dancing (so that it's not only energetic, but also beautiful). But still, you will like to overtake others, and if you become interested in aeronautics and sports that are associated with aesthetics and body improvement (rhythmic gymnastics, figure skating, synchronized swimming, etc.), then you will achieve good results. Also suitable for you are team games, all-around events, social entertainment (golf and billiards).

Avoid physical fatigue; you need to restore your strength regularly.

2.19. Sex

Intimately, you are aesthetic, but not very sexual. Over time, physical intimacy will get boring you, and you will want to achieve success in other (spiritual, not physical) areas. You get tired quickly of rough, primitive sex, because you are sensitive by nature and try to maintain your perfection. You find it difficult to perceive violent outbursts in intimate relationships.

But if sex meets your aesthetic needs, then you become a gourmet in love: you try to prolong the pleasure, love slowly, savoring... During intimacy, you focus more on your partner than on your own feelings: you evaluate his every action, pay attention to caresses and kisses, prepare yourself to a long love game, not a quick sexual intercourse. At the same time, you are easily distracted by extraneous things and start daydreaming. It's quite common for you, while in bed with your partner, to remember a former lover or an unfulfilled romantic image...

You are very susceptible to the bedroom atmosphere, you value external stimuli: music, twilight, beautiful surroundings - therefore you won't have sex either in the bushes or in the entrance. You like luxury, harmony, flowers, silk negligees, not vulgar decorations. The bed and linen must be clean, otherwise your aesthetic feelings will be offended.

How can your lover satisfy you? Just let him/her be gentle, but energetic. You, in turn, will make every effort to become the most delicate and seductive partner for him/her. Having found your sexual ideal, you will plunge into a state of admiration and romantic charm for a long time. But even if you think that you have found a partner who meets your sexual and spiritual needs, you will still hesitate for a long time before making a final decision (especially if you have to break up with your ex-partner).

You are not always able to satisfy and retain your lover. You treat him/her not as a person, but as a work of art. But you rarely meet sexually liberated men and women who want to be admired from a distance...

Woman

If she isn't just attractive, but also smart, then men simply go crazy from communicating with her. However, she feels strange in the sexual sphere: being in physical intimacy, she's unable to truly enjoy it.

Sex for her is not an end in itself, although it occupies an important place in her life - like an opportunity to feel like one with her partner. During the love game, she doesn't take the initiative, so the man is forced to lead her. At the same time, she can approve or reject him depending on her momentary mood. The scales of her desire fluctuate all the time. A strong man will subjugate her, and she'll follow his desires obediently; with the weak man she'll become the mistress of the situation. But in neither case he will feel the fullness of her passion.

Sex (in her mind) is excluded from the category of higher sensory experiences. She doesn't talk about sexual topics because she doesn't know how to convey her feelings, and sometimes she just doesn't understand them. It's more important for her to attract a man and appear before him in the image of a real Goddess of Love. But later she no longer shows her excitement and desire, doesn't give him sexual signals, and doesn't like excessive affection and sentimentality. After a stormy night, she may behave as if nothing had happened (the man will get from her no a kind word, no a gesture, no a smile).

In marriage, her sexual behavior becomes more conscious and interested, but she should select a partner carefully.

Natal chart analysis

Section Your psychotype contains a generalized description of your personality. Now we will talk about your own achievements and features: how do you actually behave in life situations, and how do you differ from other people

3.1. Karmic potential

Picture of your horoscope describes your destiny and past experience globally, not in details:

Keyhole (Tumbler)

Your cosmogram is a completely stable figure: most of the planets are collected in one half of the zodiac. They will act as a counterweight and a kind of ballast, which will always help you return to your starting position after fluctuations caused by the disturbing influence of the external environment.

Although your nature is not conflicting, it's very contradictory. Therefore, you will have to learn to combine incompatible things.

The next 3 levels show the direction of your development in terms of results of your past life: 3 ways within one direction. Determine what level you are at now. A high level indicates what you're recommended to strive for:

| Low level | Middle level | High level |
|--|--|---|
| A roly-poly doll, a dummy, a flighty person, capable of cunning, insidious moves. He is driven by personal gain, ambition, and the desire for well-being, which suppresses and stifles his creative abilities and prevents an upward breakthrough. He's often torn by doubts and internal contradictions; he always wants more | The person is characterized by complex behavior. He's quite stable despite his lightness and apparent instability. He stays afloat, knows how to get out of difficult situations unscathed, to seize an advantage, and pull off a complex, multi-move combination. There is a lot of bustle and varied events in his life, but from time to time something important breaks through, not subject to the passage of time and change | In his past lives, a person managed to combine practical, material activities with the search for the spiritual and sublime. He knows how to perceive various phenomena and facts objectively, evaluating them from the outside. He have learned to adapt, maintains orientation in difficult, contradictory situations, without losing his convictions |

3.2. Self-disclosure

Internal perception is more important to you than external one. Therefore, you are characterized by hidden, subconscious emotional reactions to the environment; this explains your increased sensitivity and vulnerability.

Your perception of parents

Your mother is more active than your father: she lives a richer life than him.

3.3. Strengths

3.3.1. Communication-strength

Most life events will be aimed at accustoming you to attentiveness and active communication (verbal self-expression and information exchange with people). Thanks to your sociability, you will have many contacts and learn to easily change your behavior under the influence of the collective field. In an intellectual environment (where you are strong), you will tend to be competitive, but your love of jokes and cheerful behavior will help you maintain gentleness in your contacts with people.

Your curiosity has no bounds, and you will never lose interest in the world until you know everything. Mental food will appear every day - when meeting new phenomena and people. Therefore, your learning process will be endless, helping you stay young for a long time. Like no one else, you know how to think virtually, so you will comprehend many things with your own mind instead of find something out the hard way. Whatever you do, you will know theory (as opposed to practice) perfectly. You'll show yourself as a nimble and savvy person; you'll get used to acting with dexterity and cunning. Thanks to the vividness of your speech, you will learn to express yourself clearly orally and in writing, and you'll be able to explain anything.

3.3.2. Mercury rising

You look nimble and agile, so you seem younger than your age (there is something childish and youthful in your appearance). The height is not too tall, the body composition is of average fatness. In general, you're well built, with long arms and legs. The physique is slender, proportional, mobile. Even if the body figure is dense, it's not obese. The height is not too high. The neck is strong, the shoulders are wide, the spine is flexible, the chest is well formed. The bones of the hands and feet are thin and graceful, the fingers are pointed.

The face is elongated, pretty, without prominent features (they are medium-sized). The skin color is closer to brown. Caucasians have pale and slightly yellowish facial skin that blushes easily. In general, the skin is soft and sensitive. The eyes are small, sunken, restless and penetrating; either closely set, or, on the contrary, widely spaced in relation to the bridge of the nose. The eyebrows are long, often fused. The nose is straight, pointed, curious. The lips are motionless, but not pursed, or rose-bud lips. The hair is thick, sometimes curly. The forehead is high, the chin is short. The lips are thin (the upper one is thicker than the lower one and protrudes forward), the teeth are miniature.

The look is smart and attentive. The facial expression is often mocking. The voice is rather weak, but the speech is expressive, and so are the facial expressions. The reaction to what is happening is characterized by an abundance of gestures.

Woman

Body figure rarely corresponds to the canons of femininity: the chest is not particularly developed, the waist is poorly defined (the sides are chopped off).

3.3.3. Energy shield

Your first reaction to external stimuli is most often quick and intense: subconsciously, you seem to be expecting a meeting with a competitor, setting yourself up for a fight in advance. You are ready to challenge any obstacle and therefore have a defiant, warlike appearance: "I am stronger than you and can twist everyone to my will!" The habit of expressing yourself actively and impulsively, with sudden changes and excitement, can become the key to your good security, but also gives you a predisposition to injuries and life-threatening operations.

You will use your strength and energy as a shield, i.e. you will consciously strengthen your masculinity, initiative and fighting skills. Good physical shape and ability to perform physical work will improve your health and, if something happens, stand up for yourself. Be sure to engage in a sport that is comfortable for you; it can be at least an active hobby that maintains a balance of your physical energy.

Men will serve a protective role in your life, and you should allow them to protect and support you. They will create a reliable rear for you.

3.3.4. Freedom sword

The main conditions for your development are independence from the crowd and a high level of freedom. It's good if you have a choice to act as you see fit, not as is customary. Your personal progress will proceed faster if you abandon conventions and generally accepted rules, will allow yourself to experiment, will show ingenuity, and try something unusual for yourself. Experiments will be easy for you, because this stage has already been completed for you. However, you shouldn't get hung up on your originality, break traditions and destroy connections just for fun. Otherwise, an extravagant approach will result in posturing, unjustified rebellion, and there will be fewer like-minded people around you.

Since it's natural for you to develop by trying new things that are atypical for the majority, technology will play an important role in your life, will help you not depend on the human factor and achieve a breakthrough in your career quickly. If, when generating unexpected, original ideas, you rely on real achievements of science and the urgent social needs, you will achieve success. It's advisable that your work is related to innovation and technical progress: you will fit organically into this environment and help others become more advanced.

3.4. Weak sides

3.4.1. Energy unaspected

Initiative is a weak point in your horoscope. You are not characterized by courage, impetuosity, the desire to get ahead of someone and start something first. But people can expect anything from you, because your actions and bursts of energy are difficult to predict. Initially, there will be no clear understanding of how you can express yourself actively, or you'll have not enough physical strength and charge for this. Therefore, your energy will begin to accumulate and sometimes even frighten you with its potential. But you will quickly burn out if you decide to direct all your energy reserves to some big, overwhelming task. Therefore, you should act gradually and rationally:

- don't get into trouble, don't compete with men or stronger people until you develop your competitiveness;
 - don't act as a hero and don't strive for a leadership until you understand the responsibility of this step;
 - develop your strength, courage and leadership skills, because they are poorly developed.
- Because of this, there is a clear lack of strength for sports, fear of competition, and unwillingness to take the initiative;
- sexually, you are developing slowly and for a long time you won't be interested in the intimate sphere at all. No one will arouse any passion in you, or sex will not bring you pleasure immediately. You can change a bunch of partners until you find someone who will bring you to a real orgasm and cause a stable desire for physical intimacy.

The masculine principle is weakly expressed. This is due to the fact that since childhood there were no strong-willed men, good boy friends, or worthy male mentors in your environment. At first you won't feel a strong male influence at all, and therefore you will not be inclined to heroism. To develop initiative and missing fighting skills, it's recommended to engage in physical work and comfortable sports that will allow you to gradually increase the load and equal yourself to stronger opponents.

The following factors will help you with this:

- Socium: Socialization, socially useful work

The following features will help you with this:

- fairness, loyalty, objectivity,
- constructive thinking, desire to resolve conflicts rather than aggravate them,

- multitasking, the ability to be different and see the world as multifaceted, to combine incompatible things, to create harmony, to strive for balance, equality and reciprocity,
- ability to adequately assess the situation and make the right choice without getting lost in the abundance of options,
- diplomacy, peacekeeping, legal literacy,
- good partnership qualities, the ability to listen, negotiate, cooperate and take into account other people's opinions. Using "Win-Win" tactics in which each side benefits,
- relationships with people in whose horoscope Chiron or Libra is clearly expressed

Health

Physical strength is poorly developed, and health may be weak, especially in childhood. Over time, this flaw can be corrected, for example, through sports, but training should be moderate and consistent. Train your strength gradually. Avoid head and facial injuries - both as a child and as an adult. Develop coordination and the ability to navigate the environment, then you won't get in trouble.

Parents should give you the basics of proper sex education from childhood and direct your energy in an adequate way so that underdeveloped sexuality doesn't result in complexes.

Woman

Be prepared for the fact that the male contingent will be quite weak in your life: many men you meet will need help and support, because by nature they have little courage and willingness to fight.

3.4.2. Risk temptation

Your generation is highly susceptible to temptations in times of crisis: while the world is collapsing around you, you will not grieve, but will try to snatch as many valuables as possible for yourself, and will like to destroy. Or, on the contrary, you'll prefer inaction, as a result of which you'll lose everything you have accumulated; in this case, changes will break you and deprive you of perspective.

Life is no joke, every word and action has consequences. Don't take unnecessary risks and don't choose a profession associated with danger, - the worst traits of your nature will be strengthened through it. Don't be indifferent; try to realize responsibility for your actions, so that in case of unforeseen changes you don't blame yourself for a done or undone action. Learn to evaluate the possible consequences of your decisions, be honest and act according to your conscience. Don't achieve a personal goal at the expense of another person, avoid consumer thinking. And most importantly: learn every lesson of fate in a timely manner, so that it doesn't subject you a new, tougher test.

3.5. Non-standard features

3.5.1. Generosity

You have a tendency to develop your own morality in your mind instead of accepting the existing, generally accepted one. Trying to find answers to global questions on your own, you won't pay much attention to details. In a way, this will help expand your capabilities while staying ahead of others. But once you leave your comfort zone, you will return to it again.

3.5.2. Loyalty

You will not understand the true purpose of partnership immediately, but only after repeated communication with the same people. It's possible to return to old contacts after rethinking their value. If you don't understand people's behavior, just "try walking in their shoes".

Situations of choice will complicate your life, bring more confusion, make you doubt, so the search for solutions and alternatives will be slowed down.

Planetary aspects

If people who are not alive are mentioned in the further interpretation, or you've never seen them (parents, relatives, partners), then we are talking about people who replace them or are similar to them

3.6. Positive combinations

This section describes the factors that will energize you:

3.6.1. Pride + Modesty

If there are some complexes in your nature, they are not associated with the influence of your father. You will study yourself and your shortcomings well, which means you'll be able to turn your weaknesses into virtues. The presence of undeveloped qualities will not affect your self-esteem, but the ability to overcome your fears will significantly increase your self-confidence. Your modesty and reasonable restraint are inherited from your father.

3.6.2. Care + Correction

You inherited from your mother her ability to adequately respond to the negative emotions of other people and not to pass by such situations. She gave you her spiritual power, i.e. her ability to recognize human vices, not to be fooled by bad examples, to eradicate your laziness, irresponsibility and weakness. She didn't hide life's negativity from you and taught you how to cope with it.

An internal awareness of good and evil will help you restructure your worldview positively, overcome negative emotions, and stop painfully perceiving other people's infantilism. You'll try to come to understanding of what caused their behavior, and your sensitivity and loyalty will help you not to succumb to the temptations of others (for the sake of your own integrity and safety).

3.6.3. Care = Generosity

Your mom will become a person who will instill optimism in you, bring good luck and raise you to be a worthy person. You'll inherit her breadth of views, and it will help you cope with internal problems and see the world beyond your everyday worries. Although you can find your calling in the household - you will develop extensive activities at home and start a large family. Family ties will help you go beyond your usual life; for example, your mother will help you get a good education, which wasn't available to her; or she'll send you outside your homeland to explore the world. It will be a good experience: you will find interesting personalities among strangers, you'll be imbued with their culture to the depths of your soul. The main thing is not to forget about your own roots. But perhaps you will find the origins of your roots in a foreign land, among unfamiliar surroundings.

3.6.4. Care + Courage

You have a good snatch for promising opportunities, and emotionally, you're ready for big changes for the sake of them. The ability to perform in a completely new image will push you to a complete transformation of your mental state, will give you a noticeable emotional change throughout your life, and help you irrevocably abandon old, unnecessary attachments: “To take all my family best and build my own world”. Your mom will support you at a turning point in your life and push you towards positive changes, teach you to be a persistent, resilient, risk-taking person who knows how to overcome difficulties and stereotypes.

3.6.5. Communication = Control

Accuracy in thinking is good for the exact sciences. Seriousness of your thoughts will make your decisions consistent and logical. You have a concrete mind that doesn't believe in mysticism, but limits your consciousness to practical, narrow goals. You learn slowly, but you work hard and thoroughly, always for the sake of some goal (even if it's small and naive). A good sense of structure will help you become a designer, developer of complex plan and system. You can learn to work with precision instruments easily (good for mathematician, analyst, technician).

Selectivity and coldness will be observed in your communication with elders. They will greatly influence your communication environment, encouraging you to behave seriously and prudently (since your childhood): “If you promise something, you must fulfill it at all costs”.

You will prefer to plan your affairs alone, so that others don't interfere and spoil your things: “Without this, the successful implementation of my ideas is impossible”. It's unlikely that you'll get close to a new person just relying only on your feelings and attraction, - you'd rather pursue some practical and ambitious goal.

Over time, you will develop the habit of setting a high bar for new acquaintances and conversations; you won't communicate with anyone, you'll keep your distance, and will demand time to think. Despite the possibility of expanding your circle of contacts, it will always be limited by older and conservative people.

Communication + Control + Freedom

In terms of communication, you have a very paradoxical disposition, because you're able to adapt to different communication environments and can find a common language with both progressive people and those who firmly adhere to traditions and foundations. At one time, you may not need active communication and be content with the circle of contacts to which you are accustomed. But when the situation changes, and more modern and free-thinking people appear in your environment, you'll easily abandon outdated methods of communication and do everything to become one of the experimentalists and informalists.

3.6.6. Communication = Freedom

Among your contacts there will be unusual, unique, bright-minded people, thanks to whom your life and communication will become especially interesting. Their verbal manner will leave a certain imprint on you, enhancing your mental acuity, independence of thinking, ability to plan and model the future.

While everyone else lives for today, you're already thinking in categories that will become relevant only in a few years. You react quickly to new things and make decisions instantly (often thanks to insights). You can become a talented inventor, in whose mind a lot of original and unexpected ideas are appeared. As for the theory, you will strive to think everything over yourself, to find something new and move away from stereotypes. As for the practice, you'll test your hypotheses on yourself and your environment. You'll be able to solve a complex problem in an original way, will automate and modernize something, will find an extraordinary method, route and source of information. And you will talk about it very hotly. You are distinguished by an innovative approach to business, so you can successfully realize yourself in the field of scientific and technical inventions, will learn to have a good understanding of technology products, and will prefer to communicate with advanced people.

But despite your creative thinking, not all people will understand you. Some of them will even call you a rebel and an original: "He just wants to make a hype". They won't support your habit of deviating from the rules and conventional theories, so you will have to prove your rightness not in words, but in deeds.

You may have some peculiarities in your speech: being different from the majority, using unusual terms, funny tongue-tiedness, an original way of communicating, etc.

3.6.7. Communication = Faith

Spirituality and practicality are surprisingly intertwined in your personality, therefore you'll be able to combine logic and foresight, a love of specifics and the ability to navigate chaos, a scientific approach and intuition. Vivid imagination will enhance your creative thinking, but won't protect it from errors and illusions. A scientific interest in mysticism and psychology is possible, and in this case you'll make many discoveries through verbal contact with people. You will strive for research in order to clarify an unclear situation, not just believe it without investigation. You'll try to link together insights and facts, imagination and numerical results - in order to correctly assess what is happening, achieve certainty in non-scientific opinions, and find evidence of your own intuitive findings.

Creative and spiritually developed people will influence your communication skills greatly, will encourage you to take up art, will introduce you to philosophy, and make you think about the mysteries of life. But after communicating with you, the majority will feel a strange, incomprehensible sediment (they will perceive you as a person not of this world).

Your speech will be characterized by a special musicality, as well as a love of poetry, the ability to compose music, expressing through them what is difficult to describe in words.

3.6.8. Communication + Courage

Intellectually and communicatively, you accept new things quickly and abandon the old ones easily. With a love of bold ideas, you enjoy challenging yourself, putting your mind to the test, and seeking innovative solutions rather than clichéd ideas. You will abandon outdated experience consciously and prefer to develop promising areas. You will keep up with the times and even a little ahead. In this regard, you're not afraid of being alone - you just can't communicate with people who think in the old fashioned way. Having learned something new, you'll lose interest in already known methods quickly and will try to improve them. You will agree to use old things and contacts only for a while - until a replacement is found for them.

The world of information and communication is just a storehouse of knowledge for you. Intellectually, many dramatic positive changes will happen to you. Be supportive of people who encourage you to change your thinking and push you to make bold changes - this will contribute to your self-improvement.

3.7. Negative combinations

This section describes the factors through which you will expend energy, as well as your personal features that manifest at critical moments of your life

3.7.1. Pride × Care

There is no feeling of being a whole person: unconscious impulses don't reach your consciousness, that prevent you from realizing the inner motives of your actions. Mistakes can be related to the fact that in your intentions and manifestations you forget about previously accumulated emotional experience (intuition is turned off at the behavioral level). Therefore, sometimes it's not possible to connect your desires with internal sensations and needs. It's difficult to know when you should act consciously and when - instinctively; there is no interaction between the conscious (brain) and the unconscious (soul). Therefore, at different points in your life, you will behave unpredictably, based on childhood impressions and social clichés.

Parents will influence your life isolated: you won't feel a special connection between them - either positive or negative. And if such connection exists, the father will be on his own, and the mother on her own (in your understanding). Over time, there will be some detachment from the mother, the lack of points of contact with her.

3.7.2. Vanity - Naivety

During a difficult period of life, it'll be difficult to realize the support of higher powers. Because of this, you may push your guardian angel away from you, - you will begin to suspect something of the people who are trying to help you. The less often you are offered support, the weaker your self-confidence will become; however, other people's capabilities should not affect your determination to move forward and believe in the best.

This combination illustrates your dysfunctional relationship with your father, in particular, his naive and inconsistent attitude towards life: one day he won't help you when you need it, or you will consider his support insignificant and untimely. However, you shouldn't reject his good intentions; find the strength to forgive him, otherwise a similar scenario will repeat in your relationships with other people. Learn to be grateful, accept and appreciate the offered help. By changing your attitude towards the situation in this way, you'll improve your destiny.

3.7.3. Anxiety - Communication

The fickleness of your nature will cause an imbalance between the soul and mind, cause illogical thoughts, actions and decisions. Your emotional outbursts will sometimes be so strong that no common sense can pacify them. This will direct your communication skills to wrong way: you will suffer from a lack of calm and rationality; you will feel depression when you disagree with people, will lose the power of speech, will withdraw into yourself due to quarrels and lack of a common language.

All these are echoes of unpleasant communication with your mother, which will be accompanied by mutual grievances and negative emotions. Her words sometimes hurt you. And due to too emotional communication with her, you may develop the habit of resolving conflicts dramatically, taking any comments personally, which will negatively affect your self-esteem. If there is a conflict in the family, then it's better to resolve it not verbally, but with mutual concern and expression of feelings for each other: your words will easily go beyond caution and can aggravate the situation, but your actions will be perceived more loyally.

3.7.4. Anxiety - Protest

Communication with your mother will increase the turbulence and rebellion of your nature, will cause uncontrollable behavior (which will surprise yourself). She'll suppress your uniqueness, become the source of an unpleasant surprise, and will be unhappy with your disobedience. As a matter of principle (or a protest), you'll begin to make strange actions and antics, will become eccentric, irritable and stubborn person. It won't look adequate and even shocking, but it'll give you a good release, the opportunity to get rid of maternal control. That is, the difficulties of emotional and family life will push you to somehow throw out your feelings. However, you should be wary of accidents and unpredictable actions: seeking thrills and acting emotionally can dull your instinct of self-preservation and cause undesirable consequences.

3.7.5. Communication - Wastefulness

Communication problems arise from frequent contacts with people from outside the circle. As a result, there is misunderstanding and many contradictions; talking about the same thing, but in different languages; lack of positive contacts equal to you in level and intelligence. Difficulties will arise when communicating with mentors, authority figures, dissidents and representatives of other cultures. Learning foreign languages will be worse for you than others, so it's better to seek support for your ideas and views in your immediate environment, rather than in other people's surroundings.

Avoid unnecessary arguments, moralizing, pompous speeches and talkativeness with negative connotations, - this will give rise to a vicious desire to influence the thoughts and views of other people ("do in Rome as the Romans do"). Internally, you seem to be determined to be victorious, but in trying to assert yourself, you sometimes provoke disagreements. You describe things that can be explained in simple language in too complex and incomprehensible ways. Don't promise more than you can deliver; keep your nose out of other people's affairs. Give up exaggeration and the habit of explaining obvious things with a significant air, - because of this, people will be bored listening to you.

There is a risk of missing out on big plans and goals due to short-sightedness and haste: a large-scale idea will turn out to be difficult to implement due to lack of thought in the details and the desire to do something that you can't handle yet.

3.7.6. Communication - Doubts

You are a sociable person, but not always reliable in actions, words and promises. If people notice contradictions in your assessments and judgments, they will consider you fickle, careless, two-faced, able to manipulate and justify dubious deeds with beautiful excuses. All of this is a consequence of unfavorable communicative environment in which you grew up and were forced to adapt: apparently, they were not used to listening to other people's opinions; or people around you were too materialistic, slippery, immature, not credible.

But sometime you need to start looking at the world differently: expressing less doubts, not waiting for a dirty trick at every step, gaining someone else's trust yourself. When talking with people, don't play around; be honest what you think. Learn to be loyal and prudent not only in words, but also in deeds, otherwise falsehood and resourcefulness will return to you like a boomerang, complicate your life, confuse business and relationships, and put you in front of a difficult choice. Be careful when signing documents so as not to fall for the bait of dishonest people. The less chatter when making important decisions, the better: informational and verbal negativity can push you to the wrong choice.

3.7.7. Whims - Indifference

Being spoiled by your feelings will prevent you from changing for the better and achieving what you want. Or, in despair, you'll stop fighting for your love and choose the tactic of inaction (even if the feelings remain and still have value for you).

Love and temptations are inextricably linked here: troubles dog love's footsteps, or, on the contrary, they entail love. All this aggravates relationships, puts them at risk, and creates problems in your personal life; makes your feelings passive and your passion - unbridled; attracts problems that you would better avoid. During love affairs, you will make a mistake, behave ugly, and demonstrate your shortcomings.

There may be tension in relationships with the opposite sex, anxiety and separation, lack of reciprocity. There may be indifference on the part of your partner, abuse of your feelings, insincerity when trying to make peace with you. Wanting to seduce you, he/she will only pretend that he loves you.

Loving an unworthy person can cause disappointment, so don't get close to a partner who is characterized by bad thoughts and inclinations - he/she will try to instill them in you too. Show dignity in love and don't run after those who don't care about you. Don't get attached to a person whose feelings are insincere. Don't tolerate what shouldn't be tolerated. It's better to break off a relationship with an unpromising partner so as not to break your heart.

Relationships with women will not always go well: you may meet vicious, selfish girl-friends who abuse your attention and feelings, who are characterized with immaturity and promiscuity.

In order not to suffer from pleasures, find the strength inside you to cope with whims and temptations. Don't let you be lazy and melancholic, don't indulge your weaknesses; don't take on the unworthy role of an offended person.

Personality realization

This section tells less about your nature and more about events what will happen in your reality and how you will react to it. Here are described areas of life that are important to you.

4.1. Personality

4.1.1. Personality + Intellect, communication

By nature you are an intellectual and communicator, internally restless and a little naive. Thanks to your intelligence and wit, you look agile in action and debate, you perceive and process information well. Feeling the need to move, you will think about everything on the fly. Agility and rationalism will help you adapt to the changing circumstances more easily. In communication, you may not be hyperactive, but you'll convey your thoughts to people clearly. Words are the same as actions for you. But actions are faster than thoughts, so you speak before you think (the other way around it's better).

Since childhood, communication will be predominantly built around your person, because you willingly discuss your hobbies and habits, love to talk about yourself and your behavior. But closer to middle age, the topics of conversation will move into a mercantile direction: you'll begin to be interested in property issues, study the market, read reviews, bargain and negotiate with people about your possible profits.

In adulthood, you'll have the opportunity to invest your capital, and in this regard, it's better to prefer quick transactions and liquid securities in order to get a return quickly (it may be not the largest, but guaranteed). Young people will often turn to you for advice or to borrow money from you.

Personality + Courage, changes

A changeable environment is very effective for your mental development. The more you try, the more things you will learn and develop an anti-stress mindset.

Personality - Anxiety, wound, mother

You will often hear criticism from your mother: "You're speaking wrong. You're doing it wrong, it should be like this. This style doesn't suit you". You'll probably argue with her about what's best for you and what you should do.

Personality - Scatteredness, arrogance

What is familiar to you may not be appropriate to the rest people. If you "leave to your own resources" for a long time, then you will have to relearn some skills, get out of the habit of delving into the little things and get used to larger-scale actions. Having a concrete mind, it'll be very difficult for you to develop abstract thinking - not only analyze the current situation, but also make generalizations and comparisons.

Personality + Results + Freedom, creativity, surprises

Many thoughts will be related not only with your outer world (words, actions, intentions), but also with your inner world (awareness of your uniqueness, the desire to break the mould and do something differently from what others expect from you). All the insights that occur in your soul will inevitably express on a verbal level: you can write poems and stories about it, will keep a diary describing your dreams and ideas that are poorly understood by other people. And you'll try to put these meanings into a more intelligible form, so that the knowledge that you possess and the spiritual experience that you had become available to others.

Personality + Discipline

Ability to think logically and track chains of events. Good for mathematician, manager, strategist, programmer.

Personality + Intuition

Your nature is very paradoxical, because you are characterized by both clear logic and good intuition (and one doesn't interfere with the other). In fact, they will complement each other: where science is powerless, you will find the right solution empirically with the help of your inner "feeling"; and in those cases when your inner voice remains silent, the brain will work at maximum level and calculate a clear formula for you. Sometimes your actions will be sober, thoughtful and mercantile, but sometimes you'll be driven by some incomprehensible internal force, inexplicable by any cause-and-effect relationships. On this basis, the gift of foresight and clairvoyance is possible.

4.1.2. Personality + Discipline, elders

Even if you sometimes allow yourself to be active and impulsive, you will still adhere to prudence and try to control everything: "I would like to foresee everything down to the smallest detail and be able to calculate and check everything on my own". A heightened sense of duty and a serious approach to life will increase your willingness to self-restraint.

You will behave carefully in relationships with people and won't trust the first person you meet. Because you don't give out your sympathy to absolutely everyone and you a priori doubt the reliability of people until you are personally convinced of the opposite. Your claims to others are quite high, so your behavior will show coldness. The desire to protect your personal boundaries will make you wary even with friends: "People are not as honest (like me). They make a lot of mistakes (unlike me)". It's unlikely that you will want to communicate with those who have not "grown up" to your level. But you'll have respect for older and more experienced people.

Your ideal is a significant older person (grandfather, teacher, millionaire), and you'll try on his model of behavior, which implies perseverance, discipline, and the will to win. It's natural for you to model such a stereotype, and the model is always located outside - you won't find it inside yourself, especially if you ain't used to listening to your soul intuitively. However, you will perceive yourself as a serious person: "I am prudent, patient, you can rely on me".

Even as a child, you will fully feel the burden of responsibility. This will be reflected in your habits, hobbies and talents - you'll be interested only in those things that will promise in real benefit, not just sentimental attachment. You will develop your skills with a clearly defined goal, which will potentially make you cooler than others.

At a more mature age, the habit of limiting oneself will transform to the material level, encouraging you to save, avoid unnecessary spending and invest in conservative financial instruments. You will also clearly regulate your communication with people in the future: "I can't like familiarity and sudden interference in my affairs".

Discipline + Abundance

Above average height, beautiful appearance. Caucasian have blond hair.

The character: good nature, forbearance, ability to forgive, love for social life.

4.1.3. Personality + Intuition, faith, altruism

No matter how clear-headed your thinking is, your self-image is shrouded in a hazy cloud of illusion. You've probably noticed that it can be difficult for you to concentrate because your attention dissipates quickly. You have a special view of the world - unfocused, detached, prone to idealism and reflecting everything you see and feel: after hearing a passage, you can completely "go into it", develop it in your imagination and no longer be present next to the interlocutor (so you cannot hear what will be discussed next). If some memories and experiences become lodged in your consciousness, then even when you come to office, you'll be constantly distracted by them, will go into prostration, and will live somewhere "inside" your dreams.

Practical and down-to-earth people will think that you're detached from reality, because, in their opinion, you don't listen to them carefully, don't see the situation in real light, change your plans depending on your mood, and live in some kind of your own world. They cannot understand how your spiritual core can be based only on intuition, - this is a completely unreliable abstraction for them. But actually, you will learn to trust your feelings phenomenally! And sometimes what you feel will be even clearer to you than you can explain using logic: "Let others understand the world through critical analysis, but I can do this purely intuitively, and I will also surprise you with my insight".

This is a successful combination for a creative person with artistic talent and refined taste - you'll be able to engage in music, forecasting and spiritual, psychological issues. But in material matters, it's better to use your brain more often, not just your intuition, otherwise you won't achieve a balance between income and expenses and will be mistaken about the property you own.

Personality - Scatteredness, arrogance

Avoid inattention and weakness of character, because they will become a source of problems and material losses.

Personality - Doubt, wrong choice

It's advisable to improve your legal literacy: thanks to it, you'll begin to act more confidently and will understand what other people want from you.

4.1.4. Personality + Abundance

A typical phrase: «I can see, it's clear to me».

You are a big-hearted person, so you're never satisfied with the space that is allocated to you at the moment. You will definitely want to know more than others, get a good education, visit other cities and countries, not be tied to your place of birth forever. Even if you can't get out of there right away, you'll begin to conquer the world remotely: will make foreign connections, will get online education and will try to gain authority in a foreign environment.

The desire to cross some borders is in your blood. It will keep your adventurous spirit alive and will help you become a very well-rounded person over time. Subsequently, you'll become a mentor and educator in your native environment, - you will talk about the places you have visited, about the impressions you have received, about knowledge that is not available to everyone. And in this way you will help people expand the scope of their usual environment and become more educated.

4.2. Habits

4.2.1. Habits + Feelings, beauty, women

You are quite capricious in your habits and preferences: you like to sleep late, pamper yourself with treats, and often look in the mirror. The aesthetic side of things is important to you, so you take care of yourself with pleasure, strive to improve your style, engage in harmonizing procedures and practices, and use beautiful rituals in everyday life. If necessary, you will learn to smile more often, regulate your diet and exercise in order to maintain a good body figure and please your loved one.

There will be many beautiful and comfortable things in your everyday life, from fragrant bed linen to an ergonomic toothbrush. Other people may neglect such trifles and wear anything at home, but it's important for you to feel aesthetics and comfort everywhere. Since childhood, you'll get used to living in a beautiful environment, spending money on pleasure, and accepting gifts. You will easily introduce into your life everything that will make you attractive and your atmosphere - more refined (related to food, sleep, etiquette, everyday speech, etc.). Even if your sense of taste is underdeveloped initially, then once, after you try an unusual dish, you'll get used to adding certain spices to your food, will learn to set the table beautifully and monitor the amount of calories you eat. This will be influenced not only by your personal needs, but also by living in a female environment: you will adopt their habits and manners unwittingly.

Since your desires are higher than basic needs, you get used to “good things” quickly. And when the situation changes (becomes less harmonious), you won't be very comfortable in it. If circumstances prevent you from carrying out pleasant home treatments, visiting a beauty salon or yoga studio, then you'll be upset.

In the future, your love for aesthetics will noticeably manifest itself in the material sphere: during youth or middle age, you will earn money by doing something beautiful, actively communicating and studying in a female environment. Women will often approach you with requests; and those for whom you have sincere feelings, you will always help, incl. financially.

4.3. Capabilities

4.3.1. Capabilities + Relaxedness, public

You are a gifted person with good potential in public activities. Therefore, live on the wave of social processes, develop yourself in accordance with prevailing trends, choose hobbies that liberate you and help you stand out from others. Self-realization means a lot to you, and over time you'll become more visible and open (you'll be an order of magnitude higher than your surroundings). Innate talent will become your point of profit, even if at first it's not associated with earnings: new opportunities will begin to flow to you through it - both creative and social ones.

In your past life, you struggled a lot, lived in a competitive environment and were forced to reckon with others. Now it's time to forget about rivalry; don't pay attention to other people's condemnation, focus on developing your own skills, don't doubt yourself and act regardless of the criticism of the crowd. Defend your interests openly. You are a strong personality and have many advantages, so you'll be able to express yourself independently (you won't need motivation in the form of competition).

One of the areas that will help you socialize in your youth will be the material sphere. Even if your well-being is not ideal in childhood, you won't particularly need anything; you will early learn to value things and understand the essence of money relations. Feeling your emancipation, people will often turn to you for help (including money one). With sufficient resources, you can invest in someone else's business, and it'll be a mutually beneficial relationship.

As you get closer to adulthood, you'll begin to communicate and move around a lot, taking advantage of your environment. Since new experiences are important to you, you will remain curious even in middle age and will want to learn new things instead of developing outdated skills.

Over the years, the importance of brothers and sisters will increase in your life; you will often go to visit them, make friends with your neighbors. In old age, your homeland will be most comfortable for you. And even if you've traveled all over the world before, you'll still end up returning to your roots.

4.4. Money

4.4.1. Money + Ingenuity

Money will come from friends and from the following potentially profitable areas of activity:

- science, innovation, experimental projects and developments;
- high technology, future-oriented inventions;
- Internet and social networks;
- daring enterprises and all kinds of innovations;
- freelancing, an unusual activity devoid of routine, strict contracts and rules;
- technological spectacles that amaze people's imagination. Short-term promotions and events with a large reach of people;
- socially significant activity that unites people in the community

4.5. Residence

4.5.1. Residence + Initiative

You prefer a mild climate, house with an unusual layout and a fireplace, innovative ideas in everyday life and a "masculine" interior style (loft, bar, garage). When choosing a place to live, explore large cities with good ratings and prefer apartments close to entertainment places.

4.6. Family

4.6.1. Family + Initiative

Your parents are strong people and, in terms of initiative, they have a lot of weight in the family, so the home environment won't be calm. Some of parents are associated with dangerous production, risky profession, the army (a man in uniform) or it's just a person who is in temper by nature.

4.7. Lifestyle

4.7.1. Lifestyle + Selflessness, kindness, help

A healthy lifestyle and good hygiene habits are your best friends: thanks to them, your ability to heal will increase. If these factors, along with regular physical activity, become your natural habit and need, then no matter what stress you experience (at work and at home), you'll be able to restore the balance of your power, will overcome illness, will cope with everyday tasks.

Treat your body with love, realize the value of its functions, - and you will have no doubt about how important to keep the temple of your soul in perfect condition. Regularly and without fanaticism, engage in treatment and cleansing of your body and organism. Learn to strengthen your immune system and eliminate bad habits on your own, without medications. Consume organic foods and medicines. All this will have a good effect on improving your health and will help balance the negative factors of your horoscope associated with poor health and diseases.

You will be lucky with people who are responsible for your health: you'll meet doctor and trainer who religiously follow the Hippocratic Oath, are scrupulous about the sterility of medications, are not concerned about self-interest in relation to their patients, and do many things for free.

If you have a desire to become a diagnostician and healer, then it makes sense to get a medical education. Your sense of responsibility for the condition of other people is at the proper level, so you can engage in medical activities successfully and avoid medical errors.

Lifestyle - Pride, low self-esteem, father

In matters of hygiene, physical activity and lifestyle, your father is not the best adviser. Sometimes he will neglect to comply with sanitary standards and won't understand your excessive scrupulousness on the topic of health, refined nutrition and self-care. In this regard, you are more likely to teach him something useful than he is to teach you.

4.8. Place of work

4.8.1. Place of work + Reliability, emotions, mother

You don't like to waste your energy in vain, and you quickly get tired of everyday worries (mentally and physically), so you are not inclined to do hard work in the office. To ensure that the work spirit doesn't leave you, the workplace should have a homely appearance (so that you feel at home). Comfort, tranquility and the opportunity to retire in your office (or nook) will make everyday work more enjoyable. Emotionally, you will be strongly attached to your workplace, will need for full employment and a reliable position. But still, your own home would be the ideal place to work (or remote work). In such an environment, you'll be able to take care of your work tools and acquire everything you need so as not to depend on other workers. It's very important for you to have your own working tools: the quality of your work largely depends on them. You may inherit some work skills and specialized equipment from your family members, and they will be truly dear to you.

Warm, sincere relationships will be established with other employees; work will be like a second family (you will go to the office as if it's your second home). At some point, you will even notice that your family members and colleagues think almost the same way and talk about the same thing. But the team won't always have a working atmosphere: your colleagues may allow themselves excessive emotions and uninhibited behavior; they may perform many duties according to their mood.

Perhaps you will share your responsibilities with relatives, or get a job in an area where the environment easily turns into a family environment (child care institutions, hospitals, catering, activities related to family values and raising children, social and psychological help).

Your mother can contribute to your employment and will influence your work process, relationships in the team and your status at the workplace. But in terms of obligations, she won't put pressure on you, she'll be ready to voluntarily serve you and play a subordinate role. But even if you communicate as equals and cooperate in some matter in the future, this will still not relieve you from disagreements (your mother and other family members may criticize you).

At a more mature age, a lot of experiences will be associated with your family: either you will feel less protected, or your mother will need your help, and you'll take her troubles to heart. Try to always be in touch with her and other family members, because you need each other. Despite emotional relationships, your mother will also provide you with tangible support, will help you financially, will give you an important inheritance, will help improve your qualifications and establish contacts with distant relatives.

Place of work + Overcoming, fixing

You shouldn't be afraid of menial work; on the contrary, it will introduce you to the basic human needs and help you get to know the ins and outs of your work. For the first income, it's not forbidden to get a job as a dishwasher, a cleaner, a nurse, or to be a helper for a master. You will have quite tolerable working conditions even in a modest position, especially if wealthy people hire you to live in their home.

Place of work + Courage, changes

You shouldn't be afraid of job changes and service reforms within your organization. All this will help improve your work and allow you to work in a new place. Regardless of the scale of these changes (an office renovation or a transfer to another branch), your enthusiasm will increase incredibly and psychological comfort in the work team will improve.

Place of work - Rebellion, surprises

Despite your family help, working with your mother will sometimes be extremely uneven: she won't like your creative approach and desire to complete the task at your own discretion. And you don't want to obey office rules constantly. If you have to work at home, in the presence of your mother, this will greatly complicate the work process. Technical difficulties are expected: if a computer, printer or other working tool breaks down, it will unsettle you and cause great frustration. It's advisable to have a person nearby who can debug your equipment, install and configure the necessary program, because you cannot do it yourself.

Place of work + Generosity

Mom will do a lot for your success, will provide you with good employment and decent working conditions.

4.8.2. Place of work + Generosity, authority

You are able to work hard and fruitfully for your own prestige. Service, in your understanding, is inextricably linked with authority, so you'll behave with dignity in your business, will master many skills and learn to do a lot. You won't be left without work, and many tasks are waiting you, but at the same time you will earn good money. The volume of work will grow not due to difficulties and responsibilities, but due to increased coverage and the receipt of large tasks. You will have a variety of working tools at your disposal, and you won't need anything to get the job done efficiently.

There will be a lot of vacancies suitable for you. And you will choose a well-known interregional company with a large staff and a solid social mission. It's not just a company, but a whole network of branches around the world. Your office will take up a lot of space, and perhaps you will have your own room there in the future. Remote work with other departments will also be well established.

A multinational team will be one of the factors of your luck. The relationship with your colleagues will be favorable and fair, they will appreciate your work. Among them, you'll become a respected person and even a favorite. You will communicate not only with colleagues, but also with foreign contractors and representatives of international organizations. If controversial issues arise at work, they will have to be resolved within the framework of foreign jurisdiction.

There will be a big event in the future that will inevitably involve stress. In childhood, this can be a long journey, a radical change of scenery, suggesting a departure from the usual comfort zone. At a young age, this could be enrolling in a foreign university and defending an international diploma. At a more mature age, this may be a trip/moving to another country and the need to prove your authority to strangers. You will have to face many problems, but you'll cope it. And in the future you'll be able to help other people in a similar situation.

In middle or old age, you are likely to receive an inheritance or large investments in your favor.

Place of work + Courage, changes

You shouldn't be afraid of changing jobs: after quitting one place, you'll soon find a job in another company, a more promising one. Moving to another branch can also be beneficial - it will allow you to change your position and improve working conditions.

Place of work - Poor communication

During a crisis period, communication in the work environment will be extremely difficult (it's bad for remote work and working with branches). If the staff turns out to be inflated, then there will be a lot of bureaucracy, meaningless meetings, unpleasant conversations that interfere with the work process. It'll be difficult to regulate the service calls and people rushing back and forth. Due to the incredible bustle, you may lose official documents and tools, which will negatively affect your work.

Place of work - Restrictions, elders

Older colleagues will be the most difficult to work with. Having a large office doesn't guarantee you constant profits and production growth. One day you will have to downsize your staff, close a branch, move to a smaller work space, or work on outdated equipment due to the inability to update your fleet of devices. All this will worsen the work environment and cause dismissal. When choosing a vacancy, don't rely on your grandparents opinions: they offer you an unprofitable company, and you're unlikely to stay there for a long time.

4.9. Love

4.9.1. Love + Loyalty, choice

You have a chance of legal, equal marriage, although it may be unstable. Not only love will play a role, but also some kind of calculation (in the form of partnership and compromise). Before getting married, you will spend a long time choosing a spouse, weighing the pros and cons. In your family, you'll prefer an atmosphere of calm and mutual understanding. You will strive for equality, relationships without struggle, selfishness and rudeness. You won't be afraid of conflicts, because you'll be able to resolve any disagreement peacefully.

Marriage in your understanding is co-creation, a process of mutual knowledge and equal exchange, where people unite for a common goal, do everything together, and take into account each other's opinions. By being able to imagine yourself in your partner's place, you will achieve harmony in the relationships and will understand his/her soul.

However, a quiet family environment doesn't exclude unfaithfulness and uncertainty. Outwardly, your relationship may look prosperous, but what is on each spouse's mind is unknown. For the sake of preserving the family, both of you may attempt to smooth out your conflict so as not to aggravate relations and maintain apparent decency.

A desire for mutually beneficial resolution of issues will pay off not only in love, but also in your business and in competitive relationships: by upgrading your partnership skills and mastering legal literacy, you'll be able to resolve many conflicts with contractors and hired workers, to resolve the dispute in your favor without conflict, and you'll come to an agreement even with those people, who is not particularly accommodating. This will not require any excessive effort, - it'll be enough to provide people with a choice and agree on all possible options.

In the future, you will have to make a more difficult choice, where your destiny will act as a your "partner": you will no longer have to negotiate, but risk something - for yourself and your loved ones. This will happen near the middle age.

Love + Promotion + Security, will, society

Legal marriage will significantly strengthen your social status and give you a sense of security. Thanks to your lover (or together with him/her), you'll made a career and will be able to realize your ambitions.

Love - Poor communication

In order for your marital relationship to last longer, you and your partner need to establish good communication with each other, but this won't be an easy task. Many your quarrels will stem from tedious bickering, mutual negative assessments, the habit of arguing over trifles.

Love - Restrictions, elders

Older relatives may interfere in your marital life. They may be unhappy with your choice of partner and will influence your decision regarding marriage negatively. They will never find a common language with your spouse.

4.9.2. Love + Curiosity

Destiny always gives us a partner who is our opposite, who is able to supplement us, teach us new things, help us fulfill our life mission. Therefore, you will meet with a person whose image is described below:

Your life partner will be inquisitive and young at heart. He has less life experience than you. And, without being very mature, he/she will perceive you as a wise teacher. He may be naive in some ways, but he/she is very smart, sociable, and practical. He'll take the trouble to inform you about important things, will always be on hand, and will help you navigate your surroundings. He/she expects not only love from your relationship, but also some personal gain, intellectual benefit, and the opportunity to find his/her reflection in your personality. The more points of contact you have, the happier you both will be.

The profession he chooses will certainly be related to information and communications (transport, logistics, travel, business trips, communication facilities), science and the intellectual sphere, education, journalism, literature, linguistics, commerce and entrepreneurship.

A marriage with a person younger in age or rank is possible.

4.10. Opponents

4.10.1. Opponents - Complexes, fears

In a past life, you were a fighter for some ideas, irreconcilable in your beliefs. You faced a lot of people who disagreed with you, and spent time trying to resolve the dispute, reminding your opponent of his rank. Now you no longer need to compete with anyone, participate in proceedings, file lawsuits, or bring someone to light, because this kind of activity will deplete your moral and material resources. Try to find yourself a more constructive, supportive environment.

Unfortunately, the sphere of conflicts is a crisis area in your horoscope. Even if you don't do anything wrong and don't get into trouble, someone will be unhappy with you. Having learned about your vulnerability, the "enemy" will catch hold of it immediately and won't allow you to succeed. Therefore, don't quarrel with anyone, distance yourself from critics and provocateurs, - they will strengthen your complexes, deprive you of confidence, and expose your weak aspect.

Actually, these people are not the most formidable opponents you can have. They won't have enough arguments to confront you, but your strength in this fight will be limited. If there is a reason for a lawsuit, then you have little chance of winning it: it will entail costs (both financial and energy) and won't give you moral satisfaction.

During childhood and youth, you will have poor resistance to stress, and if you witness troubles of your loved ones, you won't be able to help them. Don't wait on receiving an inheritance and loans at a young and mature age, - you'd rather learn how to earn money yourself than resort to someone else's help. It's better to avoid financial responsibility, otherwise you'll find yourself in cramped circumstances (avoid debts, renting property, don't ask anyone for anything).

If you think about a higher education in adulthood, then it's better not to waste your time on this: the courses and mentors won't give you anything valuable, and the educational process will be costly. Don't consider an educational sector as your main activity.

It's better not to plan trips abroad in middle and old age. Most likely you won't need them, because you'll find all the necessary knowledge and contacts in your familiar surroundings.

Opponents + High self-esteem, father

Your father will help you be quits your ill-wishers, will convince you that they can't match your little finger.

4.11. Target

4.11.1. Target - Inaction, self-interest, mistakes

The sphere of goals is fraught with many temptations. You want a lot from life, but you won't try hard for it, - you'd rather wait for luck to find you itself. This combination increases the craving for freebies, and you won't mind if someone else does everything for you (you'll easily take the opportunity to get something you haven't yet earned).

Knowing that you are subject to temptation, someone will treat you selfishly and badly: in exchange for fulfilling your desire, they will offer you to do something obscene and immoral. You shouldn't agree to such a deal, otherwise you'll become vulnerable and later regret that you sacrificed your reputation.

Karma requires you to give up everything that is prohibited; you will still be disappointed later. Don't strive to fulfill sophisticated, poorly conscious desires. Don't set selfish goals, - they are a dead duck. Avoid abuse and dishonest ways of playing (backstairs, cheating indicators, working for conjuncture, indulging people's weaknesses) - all this won't make you happy, but cause bad fame. Beware of the temptation of impunity: "Nothing will happen to me, because I have an influential patron behind me".

However, such self-confidence will cause social difficulties, will attract vicious friends to you, and prevent you from fulfilling your dreams and gaining respect in society.

Target + Reliability, emotions, mother

Your mother will help you get back on the right path, will believe in you and won't judge you.

Target - Whims, feelings, women

Most of the temptations will come from the female environment: one of your girlfriends or other interested persons will want to cash in on your zeal, will make you do some dirty work and you'll become a whipping boy in this situation: "We have nothing to do with it, he wanted it himself". You need to be very wary of women who offer you something and convince you that it's achievable easily. Surely they pursue some selfish goals, and they will perceive your failure just as a production cost.

Target + Risk

A mistake during achieving a goal will lead to the fact that one day your aspirations will change dramatically. This is a good sign for you, because there will be an opportunity to improve yourself and start your life anew. However, this will require a major restructuring of your consciousness, the need to sacrifice everything that you previously acquired undeservedly.

4.11.2. Target + Courage, changes

Most risks and drastic changes are related to your life goals: a complete abandonment of old desires in favor of new ones is likely; rethinking your intentions even before they come true. At first you will strive for one dream, but then, without regret, you'll give up it and get excited about a new idea that seems you more promising.

This may be accompanied by some extreme situation: finding yourself in conditions of crisis and devastation, you'll be inspired by a new goal. You'll understand that while nothing new has been built, you can take risks, test yourself, and reach a new level of ambition. Such a thought wouldn't even occur in a calm, stagnant environment, and you would continue on your previously planned path. But in the conditions of change, you will immediately want to act, will have the determination to change your direction radically.

In the process of your development, you'll be forced to submit to some major social changes and will reach your culmination when radical reforms mature in society. This will not only be a break for you, but also a new opportunity. Extreme conditions will even work to your advantage, because you will ride the ground-swell thanks to difficult, marginal circumstances. All this, of course, won't go smoothly: it will entail a certain sacrifice and loss (without them you won't be able to change), but you will not regret anything, because you will find a new guideline quickly and will be satisfied with your courageous act.

In childhood and adolescence, these circumstances can be expressed in a change in your "status", when you stand out from your peers. Some risks will be associated with changing your specialization and educational institution: you'll understand that your talent is completely different, and will begin to purposefully study this. The transition is expected to be painful, but irrevocable: even if you lose a year of study and have to retake the exams, you still won't regret it.

In young or more mature age, changes will be related to your competence and social environment: you will move to a completely different project, will find a different calling for yourself, for which you'll sacrifice your previous diplomas and achievements. In the future, the sphere of personal interests will move to a new social level: your team will radically change; you will part with some friends forever, and other people will take their place.

Over the years, your life plans will also change: keeping up with the times, you will not want to follow previous attitudes, you'll see your future completely different - not the way you originally imagined it.

Target + Generosity, authority

You shouldn't be afraid of change because it has the potential to be a source of abundance for you. The more resources flow to you, the bolder the choice you'll make, changing your aspirations in accordance with the new opportunities that have opened up.

4.12. Promotion

4.12.1. Promotion + Security, will, society

You have a chance of becoming an influential person in your circle, but the burden of making decisions will be quite heavy. Therefore, your social and career growth will be associated with a degree of pessimism: after taking on a responsible position, you will have to somehow infringe on your personal life, because the mission that you have entrusted to yourself will become more important. To achieve further growth, you will have to resist the system, go through a struggle with the authorities (who nominated you for the position). You will encounter a phenomenon called the "glass ceiling", - when the prospect of promotion exists theoretically, but it's unavailable due to someone else's policies or some social conditions. This is especially true for government agencies and the protection of national interests.

If you have the will to overcome this impasse and take over the reins, then you will gain a good foothold in a responsible position and begin to involve other strong personalities in your circle, will create a strict hierarchy to keep the situation under control.

When moving up, you can use the energy of your team and some extreme means, because you can't get through it alone. You'll receive your position not thanks to personal achievements, but through a game of secret patronage, where the patron with decisive influence remains in the shadows. Some respectable people may be interested in your promotion, - for example, so that you, using your influence, pull the company out of the crisis, inspire the loose team with a big idea, and defend the honor of your country. Knowing what you had to go through, you will easily be given power to solve some global problem.

But service regulations will impose certain obligations on you, especially if you engage in a strategically important business or go to work in an organization with a closed structure: you cannot just leave the country and live like an ordinary person; you'll have to be sensitive to issues of personal safety. It's also not possible to quit your job, - you will need to comply with a bunch of conventions before it, to keep official information secret, to follow the rules of the corporate system.

At a young age, pessimism associated with the social environment is likely: you won't see much benefit from social activities, you'll feel the brunt of propaganda and social pressure, you'll see the whole underside of your peers' lives.

In your youth, a friendship will cause hopelessness: the loss of a friend is possible, or your relationship will deteriorate due to suspicions of each other or social inequality.

Near to middle age, many of your plans will seem impracticable - due to personal skepticism or heard negative forecasts. For some time (a year or two) you'll stop believing in a bright future, you won't indulge yourself in illusion, naively dream and hope. But later your worldview will change again.

Promotion - Opponents - Complexes, fears

It's unlikely that you'll be happy with the status that you have achieved: you will receive a lot of criticism, which affect both your decisions and innate abilities. An influential position won't prevent you from courts and ill-wishers.

- If you reach a high social position, then someone won't like that too much power is concentrated in your hands. Someone can lay a mine for you, collect dirt on you.
- If you tarnish your reputation, you'll spend a long time trying to restore it. Some of the lawyers and officials will oppose you.

4.13. Socium

4.13.1. Socium + Energy, men

You are a socially active person who knows how to inspire others and lead people. You're a born leader, protector, fighter who does good on his own initiative, loves to patronize people (especially men) and has a need to fight for their values. You can, without hesitation, stand up unprotected people, lead some social movement and achieve justice through struggle and active action. Social authority is more important to you than an idle life, so you'll prefer to spend your efforts usefully rather than waste your life in entertainment.

Society (especially its male part) attracts you very much: you will find there like-minded people to joining your forces and applying it for a collective profit, solving some human problem. This is unlikely to be possible in a calm environment, - you'll have to achieve, shake a closed door, resolve issues through conflict, defend your own and other people's opinions. When it comes to social justice, or the interests of a large number of people are at stake, you'll immediately turn on the initiative mode, will get the ideas and resources to lead a progressive ideological movement (good for politician, activist and athlete). It's quite easy for you to be drawn into a social conflict, so you'll begin to speak at meetings, participate in rallies, and engage in propaganda. You'll become a socialized person mainly thanks to men, as well as your participation in some bold events.

Since childhood, the concept of "team spirit" will be close to you: you'll spend a lot of time in a boy's environment, you will play together, compete, and root for each other. In the future, you will also connect your plans with a male environment, seeing yourself as a leader and fearless pioneer. But, given that the male and sports environment is rarely calm, conflicts are likely between you (even if they happen behind the scenes).

Sometime a certain man will share his secrets with you. Or you will learn some "male" secrets, will start communicating with men tete-a-tete, hiding your intentions from others. It's difficult to overestimate the male influence in your life: some man will provide you with psychological assistance, will accompany you in preparation for a big fight, and will help you quickly complete what you started. There is one man you will always look up to to become the best.

4.14. Secrets

4.14.1. Secrets + High self-esteem, father

Your life will be accompanied by an interest in everything secret, a desire to discover your hidden talent without the need to show it to the world (purely for yourself). Knowing of other people's secrets and arcane knowledge will increase your self-esteem and allow you to understand that self-realization is possible not only in big society, but also in some narrow niche, behind the scenes. Going into the shadows you'll better reveal yourself as a person (at least until you reach adulthood), will go through the path of an informal leader, and will be engaged in non-public activities (thus repeating the path of your father).

On the one hand, you'll be satisfied with a secret life, and people's attempts to expose you will annoy you; you'll try to stop their attempt to fish out your goals and secrets. On the other hand, it will be difficult to play a behind-the-scenes game all the time, to remain within some kind of framework; but by going beyond them, you risk becoming an ordinary gray mouse that no one will notice. Or, when you appear in public, you'll become surrounded by gossip immediately and feel a public fix on yourself. But having returned to your secret abode, you will achieve success again and be able to influence what is happening (good for an activist, researcher, oppositionist). In your case, operating secret affairs, leading a closed community and a penchant for illegality will even become a kind of trump card. Seeing you in this role, people will trust you with their deepest secrets and recognize your values.

In youth, your life will be full of restrictions - due to the difficulty of gathering strength and somehow expressing oneself in public life. But later your luck will be in and help you open up. Near to adulthood, having gone through a large preparatory stage, you'll become ready for publicity: you'll realize many of your advantages, believe in your brightness and will be able to accomplish a lot - no longer in the shadows, but in public. Subsequently, this successful self-realization will become the key to your good well-being, and the property inherited from your father will play a significant role in this.

However, the relationship with your father will be veiled; it will remain a mystery to you for a long time. A secret communication with him is possible or awareness of his secrets. He'll give you secret information that will help in the development of your personality, will shed light on obscure aspects of life, and open up an incredibly bright world of the unknown.

Secrets + Opponents + Modesty, humility

Despite the strange karmic connection with your father, you can be sure that he doesn't wish you harm. On the contrary, he'll fill you with determination in the fight against your critics and ill-wishers, will stand up for you, and strengthen your faith in success.

4.15. Results

4.15.1. Results + Freedom, creativity, surprises

The uniqueness of your nature is that you are prone to obtaining unusual and unexpected results. Even if the process in which you take part proceeds consistently and predictably, something unexpected (not necessarily bad) will happen in the final stage. In this regard, you need to pay special attention to the actions that you take at home stretch: everything can change dramatically at the last moment, and you won't get the result you expected.

In terms of self-analysis, you're not afraid of surprises, because you're able to draw interesting conclusions, to realize that you are different from others, and to find an explanation for the strangest things. The habit of acting contrary to established stereotypes (including your own psychological attitudes) will help you find solutions that are atypical for you.

Internally, you need to experiment with your life, to track the movements of your soul. But you're not always confident in your conclusions, or will be afraid of the unforeseen consequences of your experiments, will be ashamed of your unusual abilities. You will sometimes tame the fire of your soul because of fear of being misunderstood, and will stop striving for brightness and shockingness. Until you're mature enough to show yourself to the world in all your glory, your talents won't be recognized. So that you are not afraid to develop, just find a friendly environment consisting of the same informal people like you. It's not necessary to be the leader of such a community; the main thing is that you have like-minded people and friends next to you.

Your uniqueness will manifest in different ways throughout your life: first, in some strange habits, in the desire to do everything not according to the rules; later - in unusual hobbies, when suddenly, out of the blue, you discover an unique talent that hadn't manifested before. At a young or older age, extraordinary psychic abilities, clairvoyance, interest in technology and invention are possible.

Subsequently, such phenomenal qualities will manifest themselves on a material, not a personal level: a love for unusual acquisitions will appear, a desire to make your everyday life more advanced technologically, to earn money in an atypical way and invest it in non-standard ideas, startups.

Animals

If you are an animal lover, there will be many surprises associated with them. A love for pets with unusual appearance and habits is likely. You can get an animal that is not customary to keep in the house. But be also prepared for the fact that it'll require some special care. Other surprises related to the animal world are also possible.

Results + Courage, changes

No matter how dramatically and irrevocably the circumstances of your life change, there is a great chance to complete everything you started successfully: perhaps you won't get exactly the result for which you tried, but you will also like what you get in the end.

Results - Anxiety, wound, mother

Unfavorable circumstances in your mother's life will have a bad impact on your business: probably because of her you'll have to quit what you started. If there are animals in your family, they may suffer due to maternal relatives.

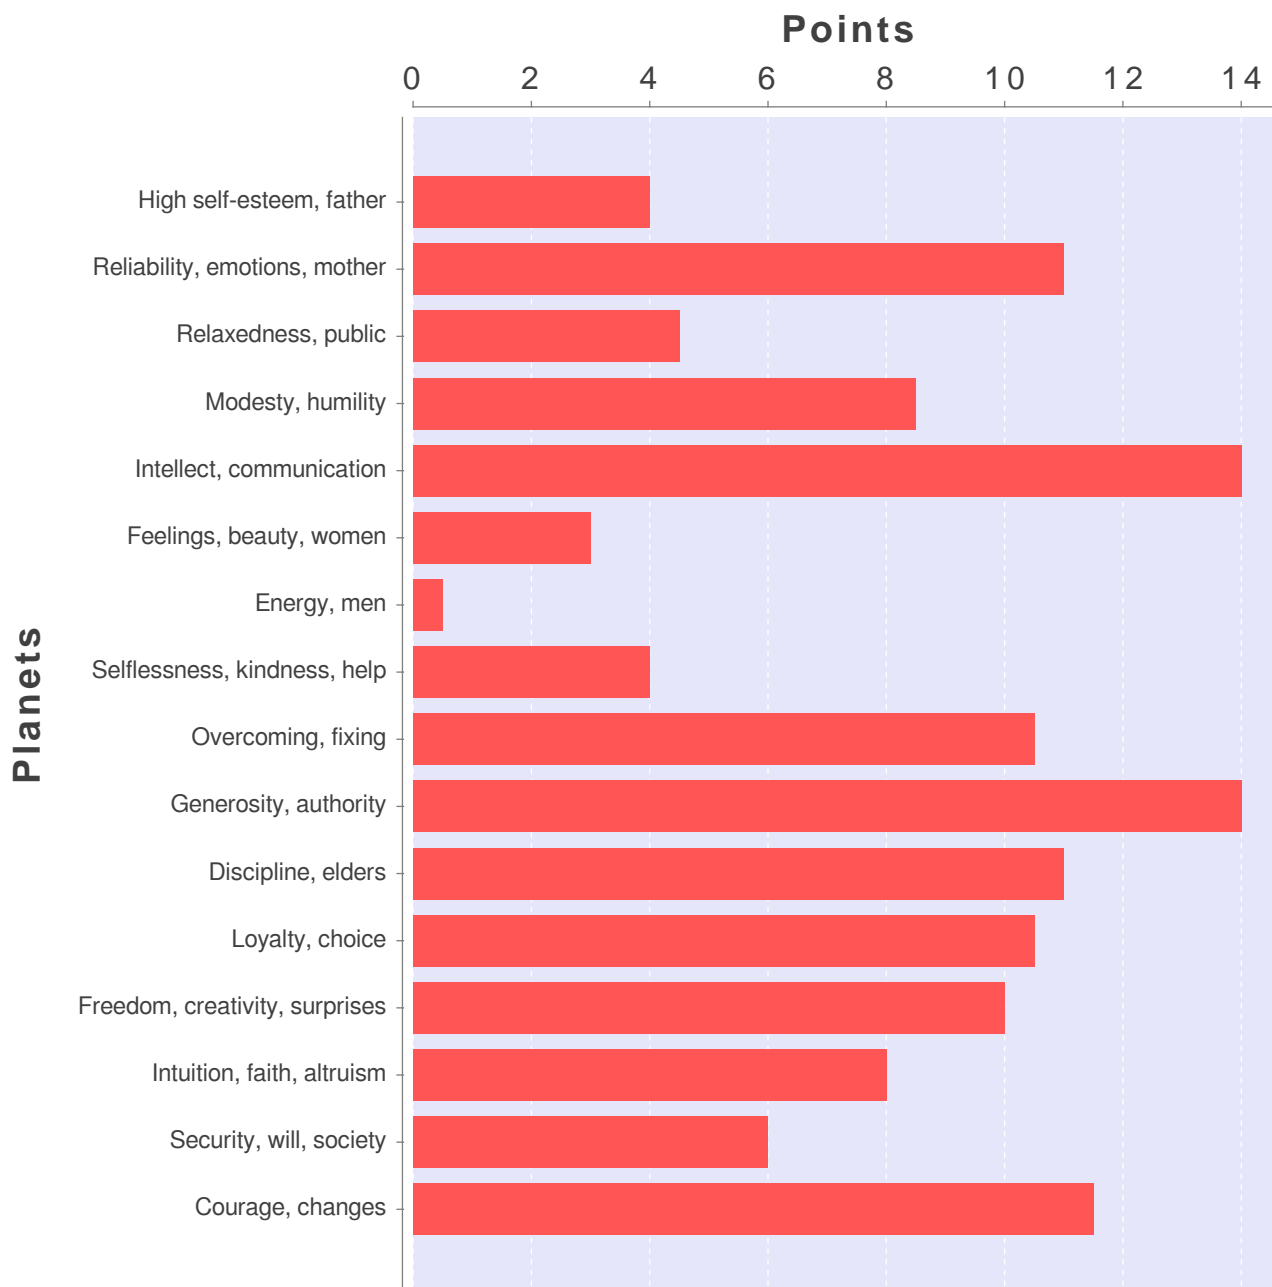

Results + Personality + Intellect, communication

A lot of conversations about the animal world are expected. Perhaps you'll have an idea about how to preserve rare species in nature or somehow solve the issue related to pets, nature reserves, shelters, and the liberation of animals from human dependence.

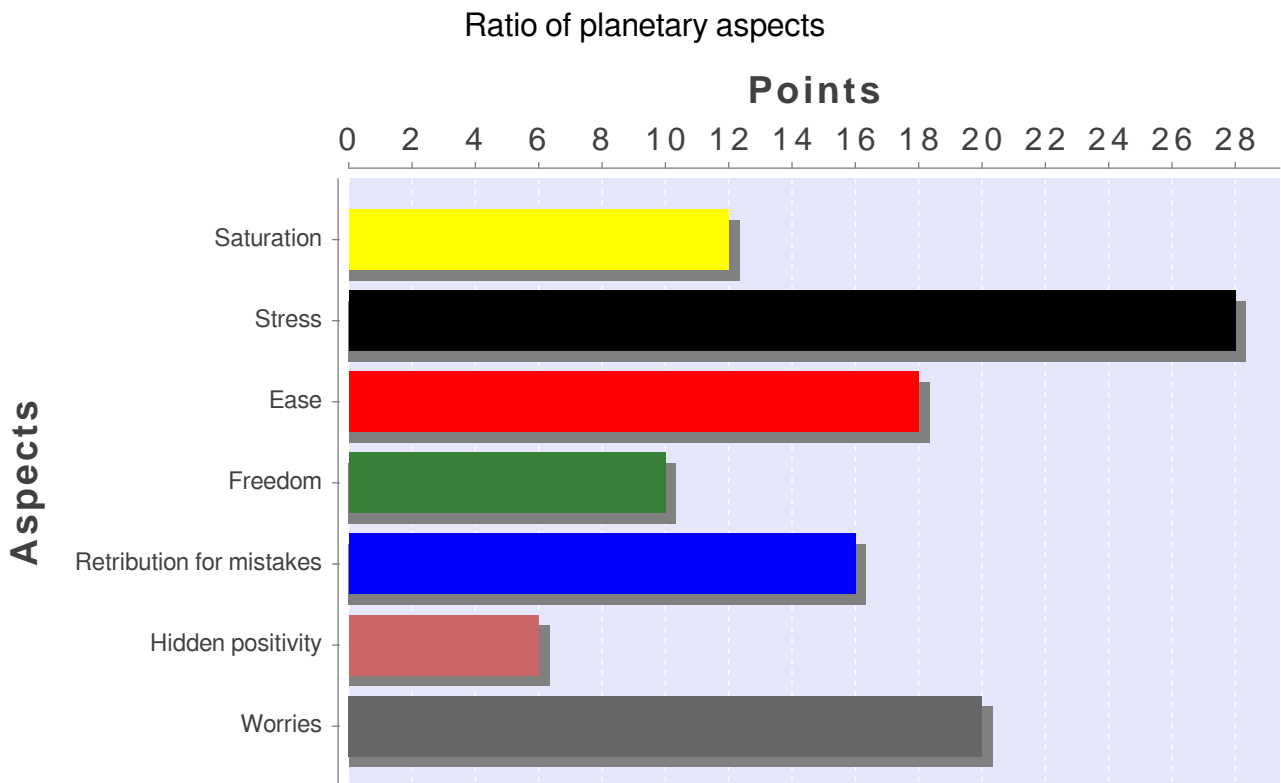

Diagrams

5.1. Quality priority

The higher the value, the stronger the quality. If the value is minimal, this doesn't mean that the quality doesn't manifest in any way. But in relation to others, it's weakly expressed, it has lesser importance, or due to some negative natal factors, its value was leveled eventually

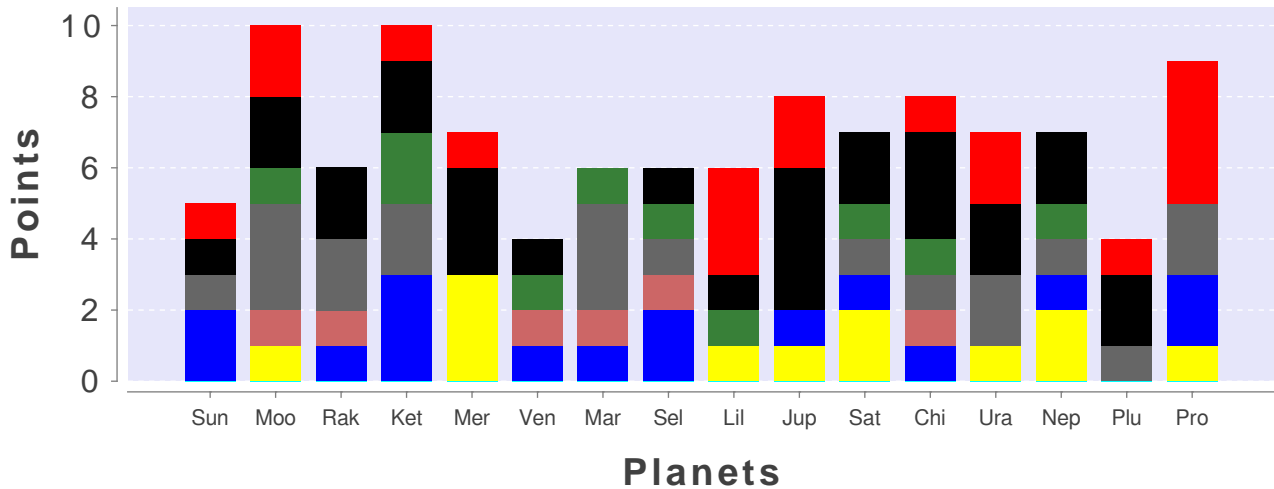

5.2. Ratio of planetary aspects

- Retribution for mistakes are more than freedom, which means you will face restrictions, and won't always have the opportunity to make your own choice
- The more neutral factors, the more changes will regularly occur in life in a short period. Events will not be only good or bad – they will be mixed up
- Conflicts are off the charts, which means the outflow of your energy is quite strong (through difficulties and heart-to-heart talks). Develop your fortitude, learn to manage and mitigate risks
- The rest of the scores are average

5.3. Planetary aspects by spheres of life

The diagram shows in which area there will be more stress, ease, freedom, experiences and trials

Spirituality Saturation Retribution for mistakes Hidden positivity Worries
 Freedom Stress Ease Tests

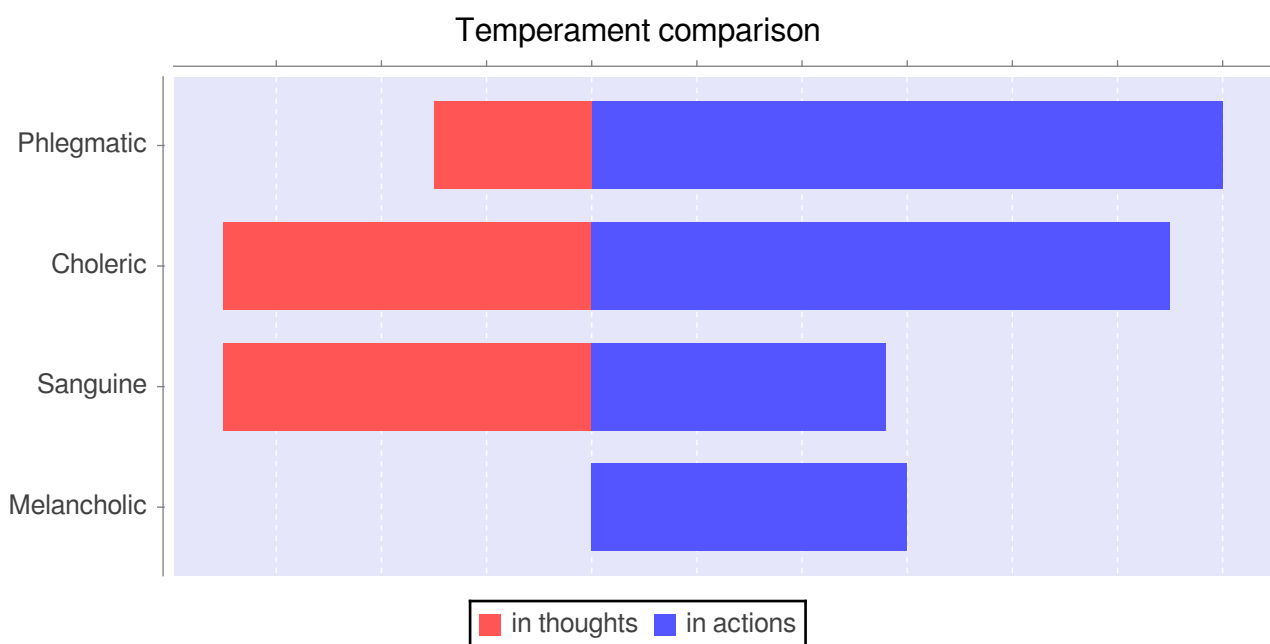

- Sun – High self-esteem, father
- Moon – Reliability, emotions, mother
- Rakhu – Relaxedness, public
- Kethu – Modesty, humility
- Mercury – Intellect, communication
- Venus – Feelings, beauty, women
- Mars – Energy, men
- Selena – Selflessness, kindness, help
- Lilith – Overcoming, fixing
- Jupiter – Generosity, authority
- Saturn – Discipline, elders
- Chiron – Loyalty, choice
- Uranus – Freedom, creativity, surprises
- Neptune – Intuition, faith, altruism
- Pluto – Security, will, society
- Proserpina – Courage, changes

5.4. Temperament

Emotional-logical-ethical type

You have the qualities of a savvy trader who is able to cover many areas of activity, establish extensive connections and learn to stand on the feet firmly. By nature, you're a well-formed teacher. There is one drawback - a weak self-consciousness; it's necessary to develop spiritually, cultivate empathy, sympathy and intuition.

- Category «in thoughts» shows your ideal model: what temperament prevails in your personality, what are you focused on mentally, what manifestations are important, necessary and natural for you.
- Category «in actions» shows which temperament starts to dominate in your behavior when it's time to act.

- Choleric (Fire element) - fast, impulsive, passionate, able to overcome significant difficulties, but unbalanced, prone to violent emotions and sudden mood swings. Feelings arise quickly and are vividly reflected in speech, gestures and facial expressions
- Phlegmatic (Earth element) - slow, calm, with steady aspirations and a more or less constant mood (outwardly, he weakly expresses his state of mind). Type of nervous system: strong, balanced, inert. Good memory, high intellect, propensity for thoughtful, balanced decisions, without risk
- Sanguine (Air element) - lively, mobile, easy to experience failures and troubles. The facial expressions are varied and rich, the pace of speech is fast. Emotions are positive predominantly, they arise and change quickly
- Melancholic (Water element) - easily injured, deeply worries even minor failures, sluggishly reacts to what is happening. Type of nervous system: highly sensitive. Subtle reaction to the slightest shades of feelings. His experiences are deep, emotional and very stable

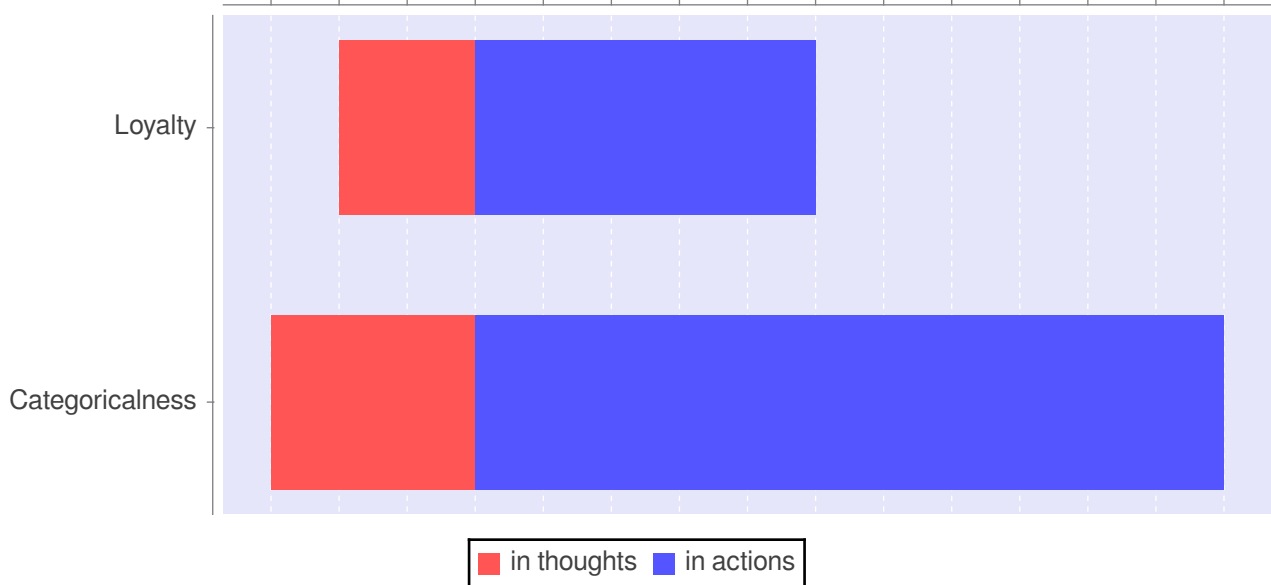

5.5. Loyalty and categorical

The tendency is more to categorical than to loyalty

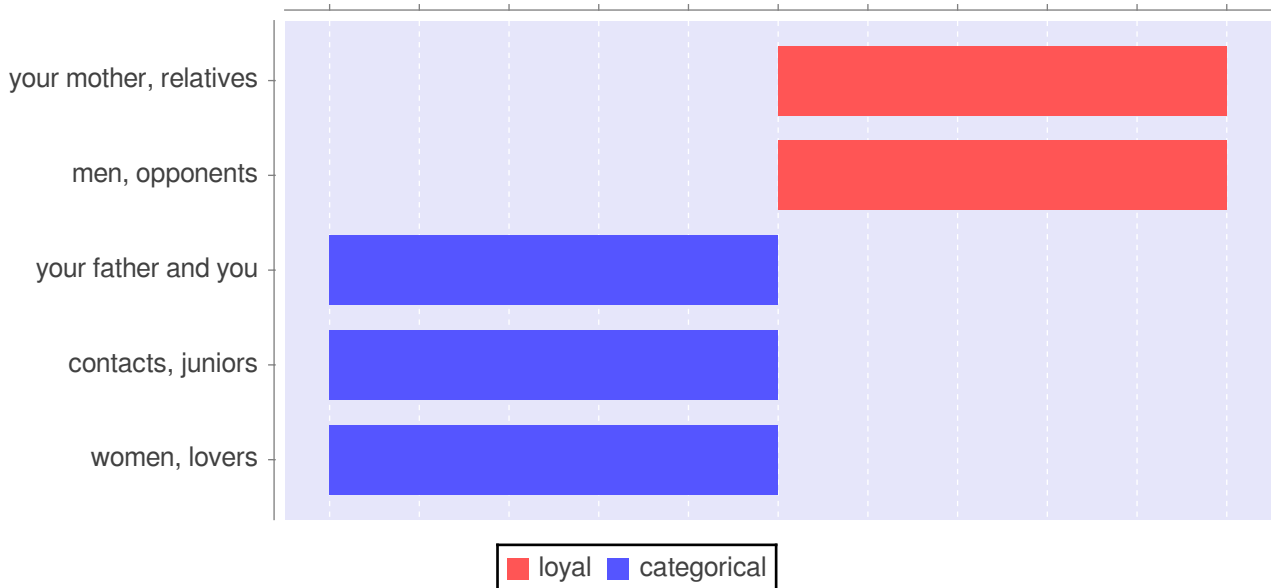

Categoricalness is an unwillingness to adapt, lower the moral bar and be condescending.

- Category «in thoughts» shows your habitual model: how loyal you are to the world.
- Category «in actions» shows how your loyalty level changes in practice when it's time to act.

Comparison of loyalty and categoricalness

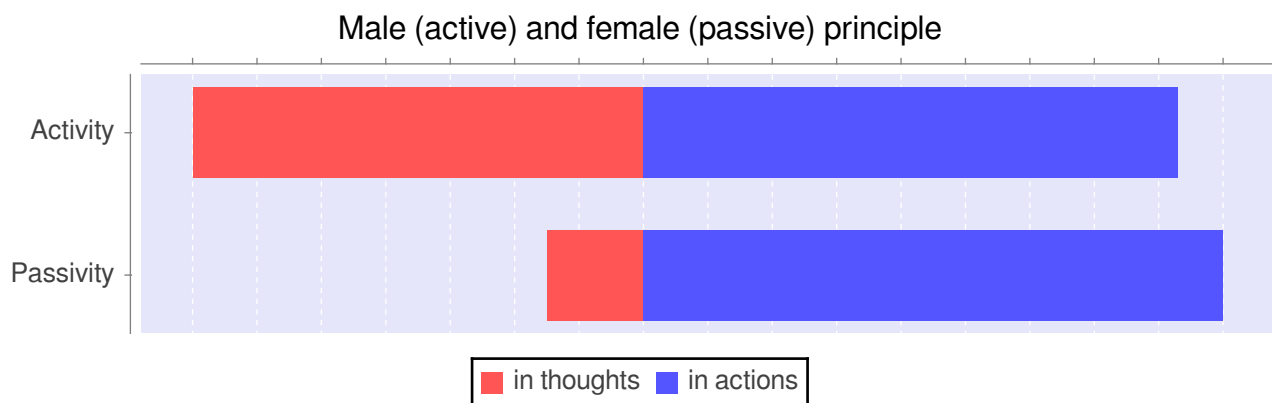

To whom are you loyal, and to whom are you categorical:

5.6. Masculine and feminine

You are characterized by outward-directed energy: initiative, determination, active life position. There is often an atmosphere of action and tension around you because you're impatient and eager to take the bull by the horns. That is, you take steps without waiting for external influence. Your power can be described as active and creative.

- Category «in thoughts» shows how active you are during thinking and making decisions alone.
- Category «in actions» shows how your activity changes when it's time to act.

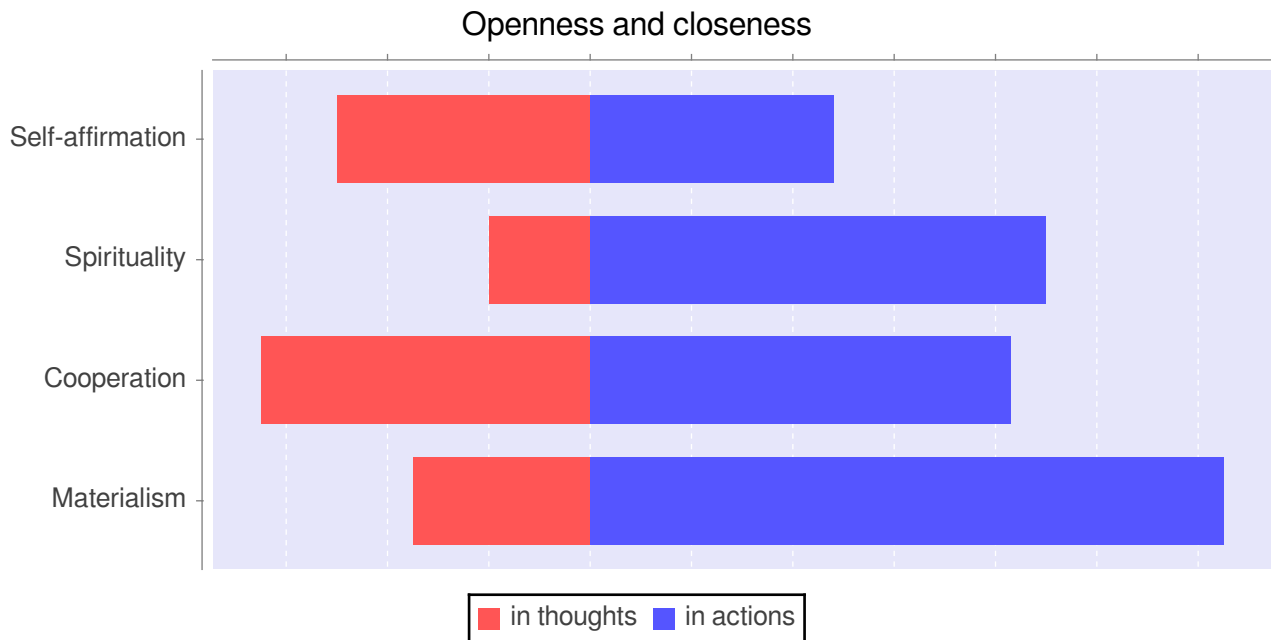

5.7. Personality type

Ethical extrovert

You are a born teacher and reformer, in whose consciousness materialism prevails. You live a predominantly external life, focused on external events. You're characterized by realistic views, an objective and impartial attitude towards life. Your deeds will go beyond your personal considerations, so you'll achieve recognition by passing on your accumulated experience to other people. You have the power to change the conditions of your life completely and achieve a lot while striving to your goal.

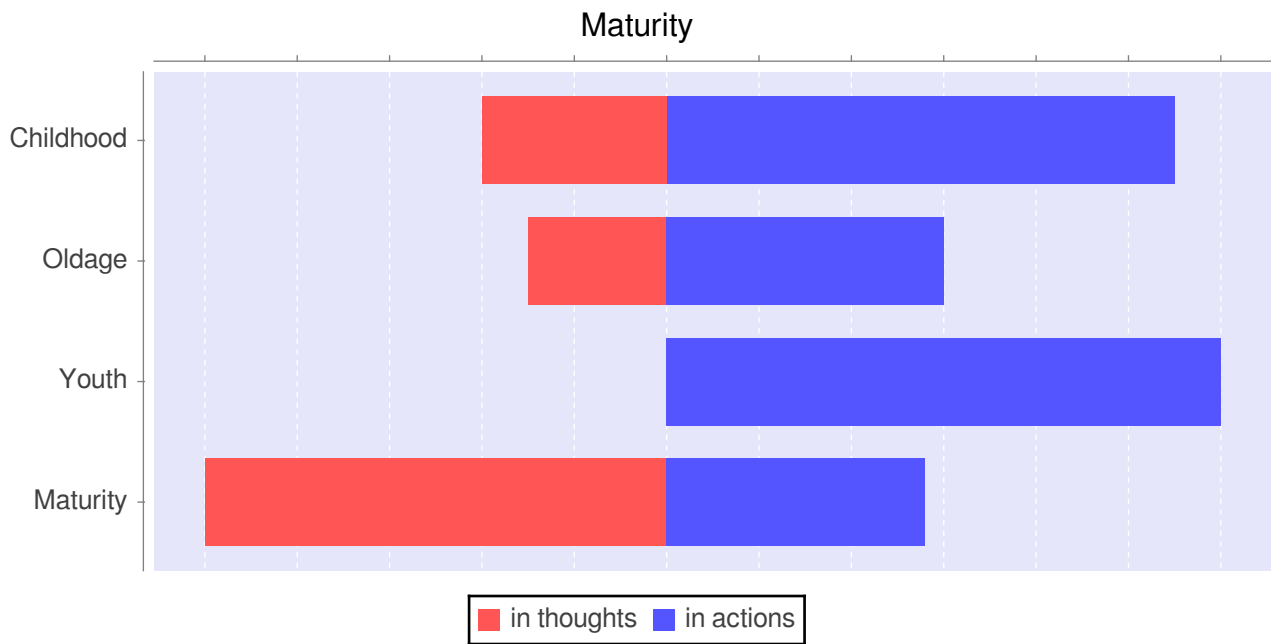

- Openness is expressed in self-affirmation and cooperation
- Closeness is expressed in spirituality and materialism

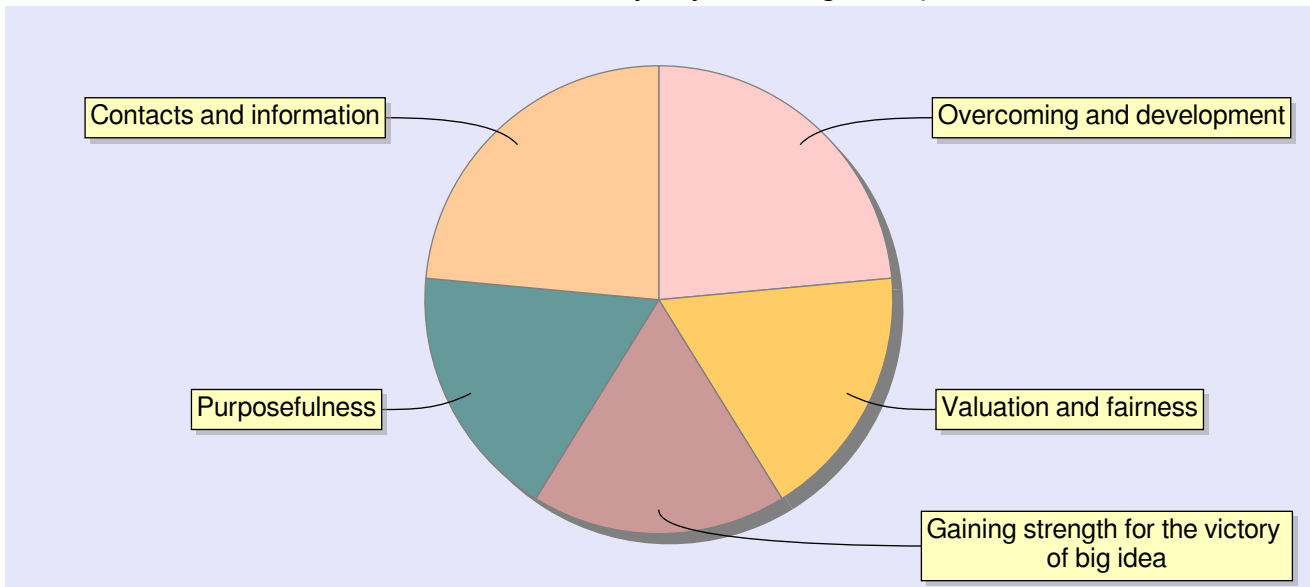

5.8. Maturity

As a child, you are wise but difficult to educate: you require more attention than other children. No one can influence you, - you prefer to use what you have accumulated on your own: "I know what to do myself". However, you won't take any risks either. The strong desire to teach everyone will strengthen over time, but you should decide in advance on your system of life values, otherwise you'll become an arrogant owner.

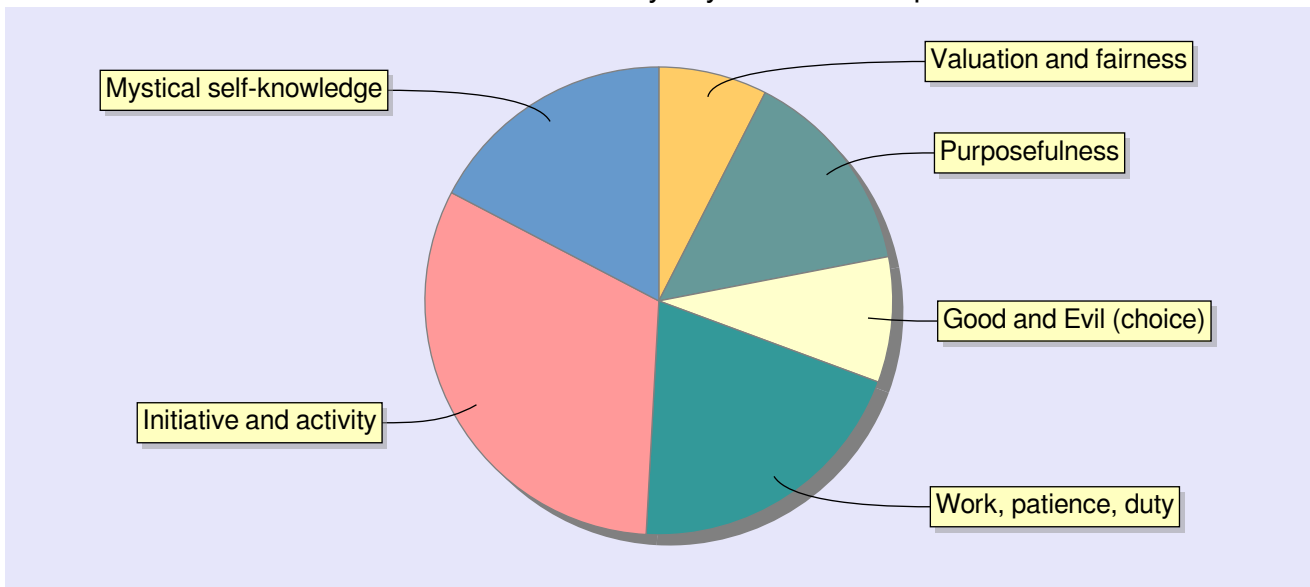

The diagram shows how the features of different age groups are expressed in your thoughts and actions:

In what features is maturity of your thoughts expressed:

In what features is maturity of your actions expressed

5.9. Strategy

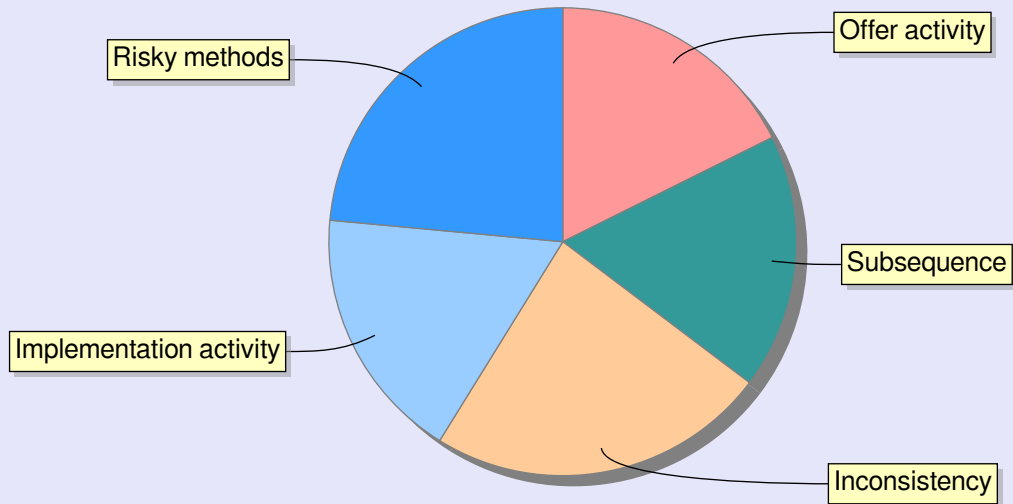

You are a person with diverse interests, flexible and able to act according to circumstances, to see all aspects of a phenomenon and situation. However, you're too restless and changeable, sometimes seem indecisive, vague, too pliable. Sometimes it's difficult to rely on you, but not because you're a liar or a traitor; you just always act according to your deep inner conviction, but your convictions often change. With the best of intentions, you may promise more than you can deliver. You build too grandiose plans, because you know a lot superficially. You lack persistence and originality for practice.

Your strategy is incomprehensible to others. You have a weak ability to respond, you are less receptive than others. But you live in the present and know how to benefit from any situation. Success will come to you through the ability to adapt. And thanks to your charm and gentle treatment of people, you will make many friends. Good for politicians, administrators, military.

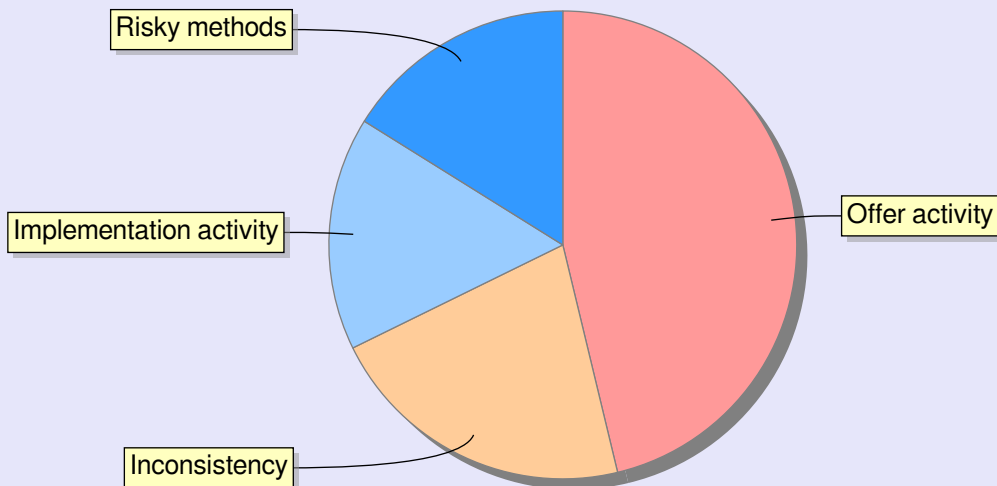

The diagram shows what type of strategy you are following at rest, and how this strategy changes when it's time to act and make decisions:

In what features is strategy of intentions expressed:

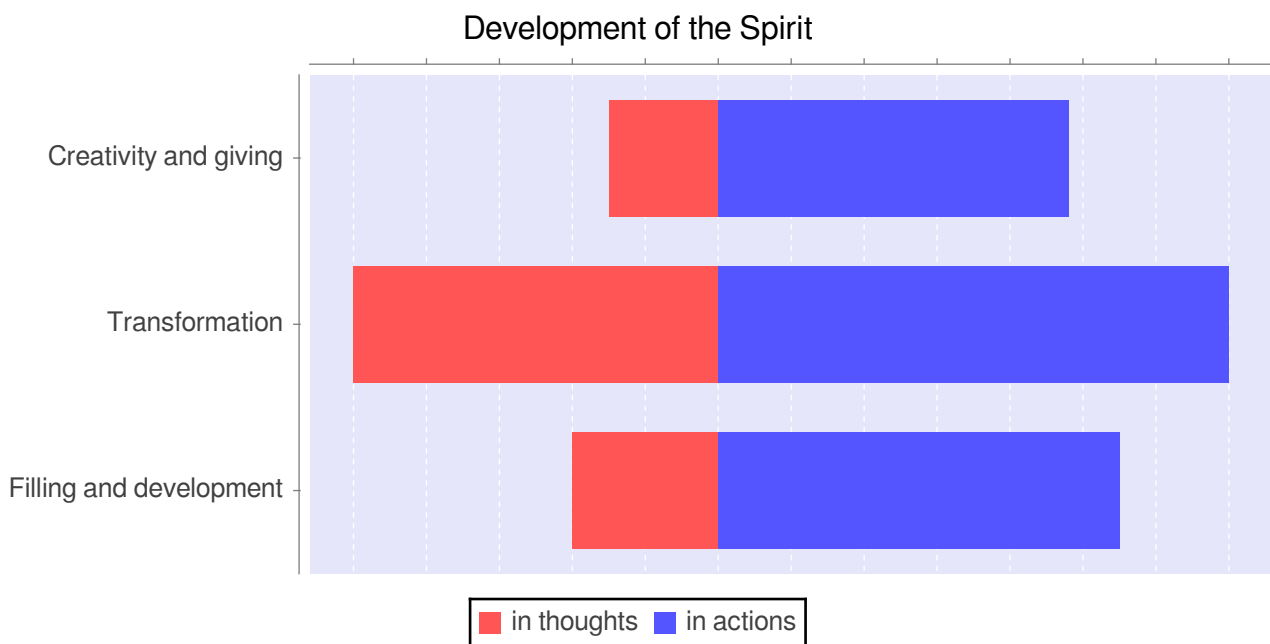

In what features is strategy of actions expressed:

5.10. Development of the Spirit

The process of your development reflects the duality of all things: destruction for the sake of subsequent creation. This is a symbol of the outgoing masculine principle (activity and creative output) and the growing feminine principle (receptivity and expectation). A symbol of new knowledge, transformation, the approach of the Subtle World, where your soul is going to after completing its incarnation on Earth. By and large, you no longer care much about surrounding events: you understand that everything is vanity, and the main thing awaits you ahead.

The diagram shows what priorities you set for your development, and how they change in action:

5.11. Aspect patterns

The drawing of your natal chart consists of geometric shapes that reflect planetary relationships. All people have different shapes. Each shape summarizes your strengths and weaknesses, shows the main sources of your growth and tension

5.11.1. Necklace

Discipline, elders
(Personality)

Intuition, faith, altruism
(Personality)

Freedom, creativity, surprises
(Results)

Intellect, communication
(Personality)

These stages of life will be activated sequentially under the influence of people and factors indicated in the figure:

- 1.time to express yourself, test a new model of behavior; emphasis on your appearance
- 2.emphasis on routine, developing new habits
- 3.gaining the opportunity to realize your talent
- 4.material status will begin to play a more significant role in your life
- 5.time of financial enrichment: through personal earnings and income from other people
- 6.opportunity to cooperate and help people financially
- 7.increased activity, movement, communication, consumption of information
- 8.the need to learn new things; no fear of being a student
- 9.strengthening the role of the closest environment in your life: contacts with neighbors and relatives will become more active; there will be a desire to live the life of your area

You are currently on the level #3

General description of the pattern:

This figure indicates that very significant events will occur in early childhood. And subsequently, the factors noted in the figure will from time to time be highly concentrated in one area of your life. Therefore, in a relatively short period of time (2-5 years), you will be able to realize all the previously accumulated energy. That is, you will regularly have a period that oversaturated with events in one area (the so-called "finest hour"). In a short time, you seem to live a whole life, squeeze the maximum out of a certain area, and then a long period of lull and accumulation will follow, when nothing happens.

- If we are talking about favorable events, then at such a peak you need to have time to realize yourself, because the next chance will come after a very long time (many years);

- if we are talking about undesirable events, then you have to go through a whole series of tests. More about this will tell the long-term forecast.

5.11.2. Lighter

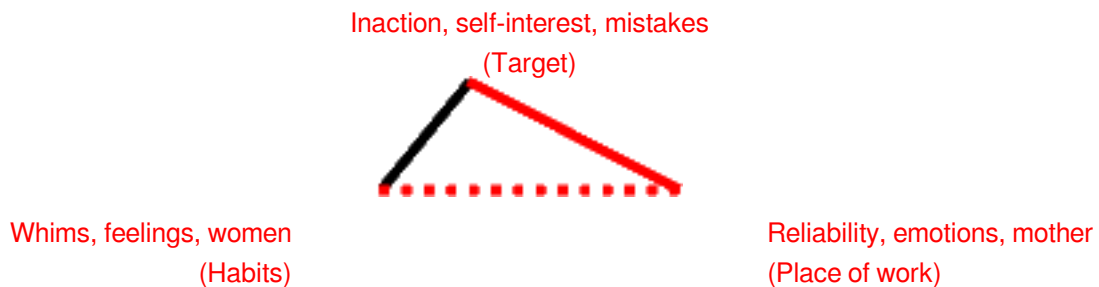

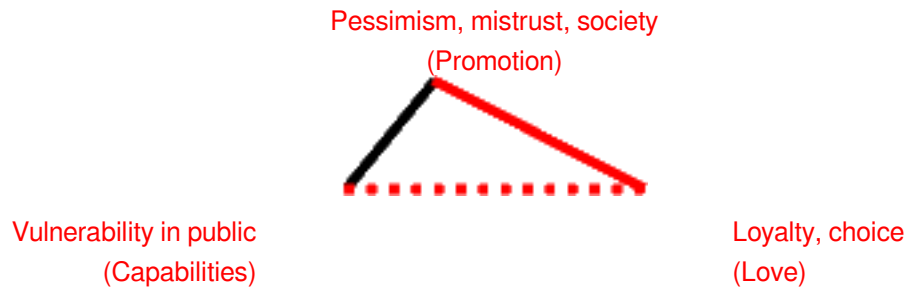

General description of the pattern:

Spheres of life located at the base of triangle will cause troubles that will have a stable nature: once flaring up, such a fire will burn for a long time and not too dangerously, but it is difficult to extinguish it. If people are indicated on the sides, then misunderstanding will arise between them, and you will feel their conflict on yourself. Nothing abrupt and unexpected will happen, but negativity can keep you in suspense for a long time where peace and tranquility reigned until recently.

Despite the above, this figure is considered favorable - thanks to a strong factor at the top of triangle: this is a spark of goodness that will help you cope with difficulties, relieve tension and soften severity of the situation. You can start a fire even from raw logs. But it should be noted that where you manage to smooth out the contradictions, someone will still try to kindle hostility and will escalate tension.

Sometimes through this figure you will try to hide your inner split and inconsistency under the guise of contentment and well-being.

5.11.3. Locomotive

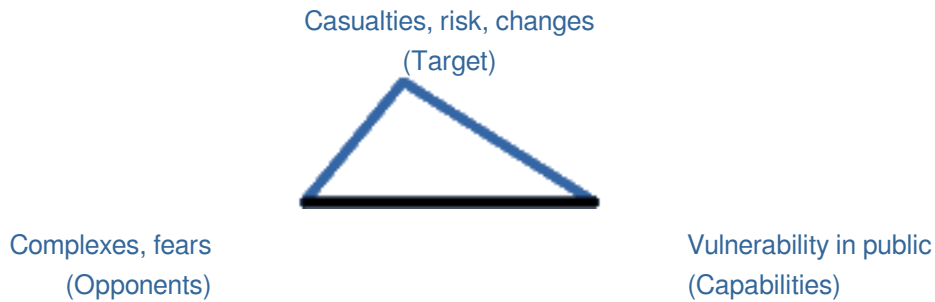

General description of the pattern:

There is a strong conflict between the top and left factors. They won't leave you alone, will cause anger, and sometimes fear, despair and loss of balance. If specific people are indicated there, then confrontation will arise between you; it can cause a breach. Such obstacle cannot be circumvented; it must be overcome. And if you do this, you'll feel lucky and confident, and will receive a reward for your perseverance. But if you continue to cultivate contradictions, then there will be a regular repetition of situations that you couldn't cope with.

The advantage of the conflict is that it doesn't last forever, and you have certain protection against a stroke of bad luck. Therefore, despite the stress you have experienced, you'll become more humane and find the strength to forgive everyone.

The right factor plays a positive role in this figure; it will push you towards balance. You may sometimes appear doubtful and indecisive, but this will teach you to respect other people's points of view and evaluate reality after trying to walk in their shoes.

5.11.4. Levee

General description of the pattern:

The factor at the top of triangle is karmic (its origins are not obvious and incomprehensible). If some people are mentioned there, then there will be no sharp conflict between you, but often there will be a long, unpleasant tension. If it would just a negative, then with the "help" of a scandal you could quickly put an end to your relationship. But in this case, there will be no critical aggravation, so you just have to endure and guess, will making the same mistakes.

The cause of many difficulties is indicated at the top of the figure, with its consequences on the sides. In fact, these are some gaps in your life that can be eliminated and swamp. But in order to really correct the situation and achieve a significant result, you'll have to work long and hard, look for a mistake that was once made, shovel a large amount of "waste" rock. Initiative and patience will get you there.

Avoid dishonest attitude to your duties, so as not to feel guilty later. These duties will be associated with factors located at the corners of the figure.

5.11.5. Footstep

General description of the pattern:

Despite a favorable life situation, there will be some hidden problem associated with the factors at the top of the figure. In one sense, you'll be subordinate to the people and circumstances that are indicated there. And you cannot break out of the dependence easily: they will often get on our backs, remind of your duty. The good news is that such pressure won't deprive you of positivity, because it will act covertly.

Due to the fact that the lower spheres of your life are well developed, you will respond to obligations imposed from above more easily; and when you fulfill them, you'll receive a worthy reward. That is, you can enjoy life truly and get everything you want not by chance, but as a result of honestly fulfilling your duty, quality work. This will be your moment of recognition.

Near the age of 40, factors located at the top and left are activated in your life. But, this is a private situation, not a global event.

5.11.6. Jemmy

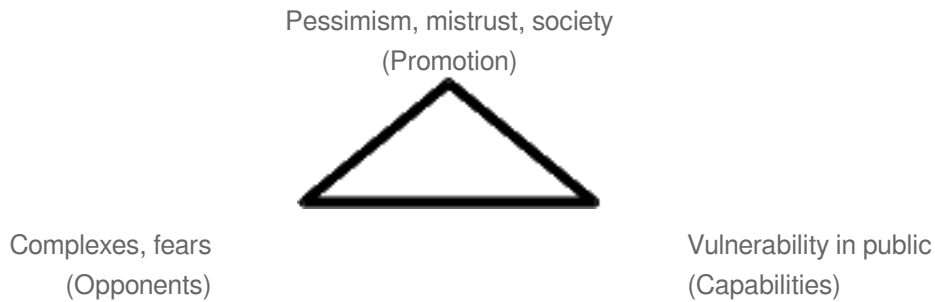

General description of the pattern:

The figure is associated with problems that you cannot solve head-on. The top factor of the triangle will create a strange tension, because of which all your efforts and a sincere desire to fix problem will be ineffective. The cause of many problems is explained by bottom factors, and the solution lies in your own psychological attitudes. Once you understand your desires and complexes better, many problematic things will become clear immediately. Only by working on relationships with the people indicated in the figure you will eradicate arisen problems, will be able to use difficult situations for your benefit.

Around the age of 20, an event will occur in which the factors located on the top and on the left will be closely intertwined.

5.11.7. T-square

Triangle stress factors:

- harm from your own inertia, jealousy, passions and attachments;
- fixation on negative experiences, pessimism, doom, despondency, reluctance to move forward and look for a way out of the situation, the habit of judging yourself and others;
- your soul, like a magnet, attracts negativity (even unconsciously), so a lot of negative energy accumulates inside you at critical moments in life;
- propaganda, pressure from society and the team;
- serving society at the expense of your personal life. In this regard, it's not recommended to go into politics, work in the state sector, or bear arms;
- clash with the underworld, shadow spheres of life;
- suspicion, secrecy, lack of a sense of security and trust in people;
- conflicts with government officials, criminal elements and people whose horoscope has a pronounced Pluto and the constellation Scorpio

Your reaction to these factors:

You take action quickly, even if the situation is unfavorable. When things get tough, abstract concepts like etiquette and decency will be overshadowed. If you can rise spiritually and get out of the crisis with dignity, you'll become a faithful and reliable partner for other people.

General description of the pattern:

T-square is a targeted strike. There are no tearing contradictions here, but narrowly directed negative energy that entails an unpredictable situation, an unexpected blow of destructive force, against which you will be confused and unprotected. You could get used to a heavy backpack, but not to the boxing punch. Therefore, it's better to be prepared to counteract.

Bottom factors indicate the source of your trouble; the apex indicates the area of life where negativity will gain the greatest strength (see list above). Many unpleasant surprises, shocks, exhausting conflicts and psychological breakdowns will be associated with this triangle.

How is everything going?

The T-square turns on unexpectedly and takes us by surprise, requiring flexibility, mobilization of all our forces and abilities: you have to involve in solving the problem immediately. You won't be able to wait for mercy from fate, but you'll have to react quickly, achieve everything with your own efforts, intelligence and patience.

The strength of this figure is that the cause of the conflict is clear: there is no need to sit and guess what and why, you just need to parry and adapt. This is a kind of "combat" situation, with aggression and an unexpected activity. It will force you to restructure and become more mobile, will let you to change for the better through conflict, and calculate your efforts correctly. It's important to choose the best moment for these efforts and use your strength wisely so as not to overexert yourself and waste it.

The bad thing is that the ability to respond to a blow adequately comes to us only after it hits us. But if you learn to use the factor of reasonable risk, you'll be able to repel all further attacks: a well-prepared rebuff will provide you with victory and a breakthrough in the direction indicated by the top of the triangle.

Until you are ready for decisive action, the top factor will cause you concern: the most painful blows and experiences will be associated with it. But by strengthening your nature and getting used to thinking through actions quickly, you will turn the point of pain into a point of progress. In the end it will help you win and achieve a significant result. That is, the negative factors of the triangle will play a direct role in the development of your "fighting" skills, acting on the principle: «Whatever doesn't kill you makes you stronger».

5.11.8. Ridgepole

Vulnerability in public
(Capabilities)

Anxiety, wound, mother
(Place of work)

Rebellion, surprises
(Results)

Complexes, fears
(Opponents)

General description of the pattern:

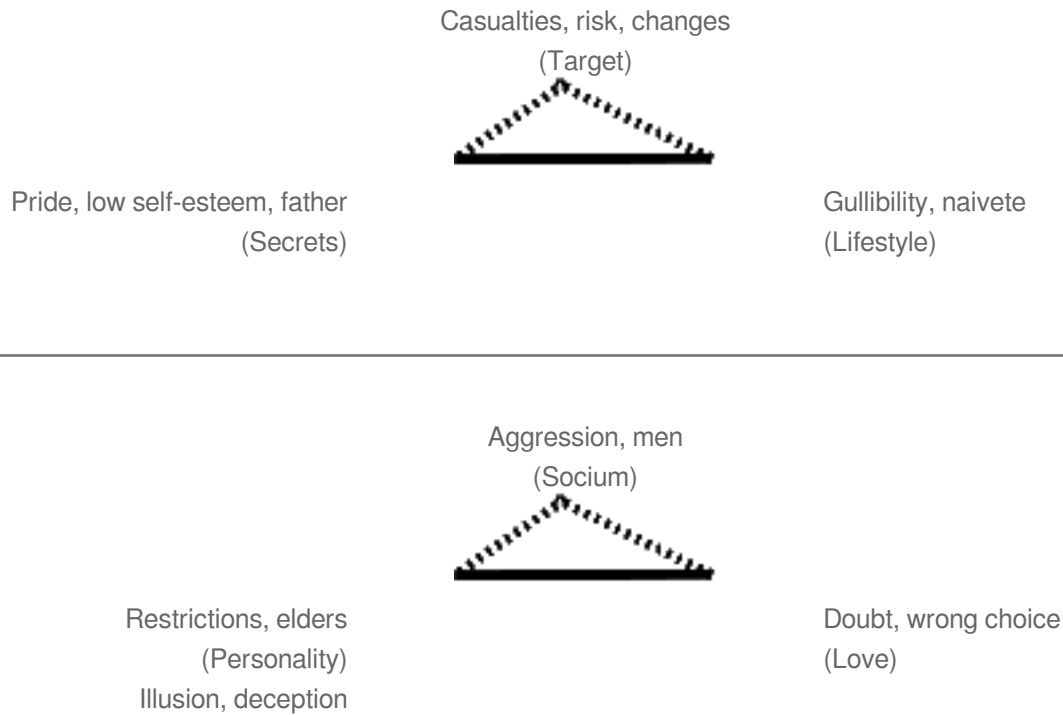

In difficult and uncomfortable periods of life, you will only be a witness to what is happening: troubles will form a vicious circle, but the issues of honor and morality, as well as your instinct of self-preservation will prevent you from letting your emotions out. You won't advertise many your experiences so that they don't become a threat to your usual life. Because of this, the negative will continue to exist in a hidden form, without finding a way out, which will cause tension, despondency and double life. On the physical level it may cause stress and neuroses. Sooner or later, such lack of freedom will turn into a time bomb, and one day you'll behave like a person who has nothing to lose. It's important that your healing and escape from the captivity of circumstances is not accompanied by neglect of the values and connections that were accumulated previously and remain dear to you.

The factors on the angles will cause anxiety and rebellion. Because of your habit of looking for contradictions, you'll provoke conflict unknowingly. Moreover, even a calm situation can cause discomfort (because there is some unresolved, pressing moment). It's important to come to an understanding of the problem and its consequences, otherwise negative factors will “waste” all your energy.

Learn to use contradictions and tense situations subtly to achieve your own goals. This is how you will solve the problem and get what you want. Being able to cope with a situation will excite you, will flavor to your life, and transform the thrill into useful experience.

Around the age of 45, several events will occur in which all the vertices of the rectangle are activated in turn.

5.11.9. Pin

General description of the pattern:

There is an area in your life (at the top of triangle) that constantly attracts your attention: drop by drop, day after day, you are forced to give yourself to it, allocate some of your time and resources to solve a specific problem. It may not be a burden at all and will become so familiar that you will stop noticing this area of life, - it will turn into a routine, emphasizing the constancy of your being. But if you stop paying attention to it, then life will become less intense and full; in addition, negative factors (at the base of figure) are activated.

Around the age of 45, an event will occur that activates the spheres of life located above and to the left.

5.11.10. Confrontation

Poor communication
(Personality)
Restrictions, elders
Rebellion, surprises
(Results)
Illusion, deception

Anxiety, wound, mother
(Place of work)
Scatteredness, arrogance
Doubt, wrong choice
(Love)

General description of the pattern:

The figure is a harsh symbol of contradiction and irreconcilability. The left factors will become a source of endless conflict, weakening the areas of life located on the right. You cannot solve this conflict. If specific people are indicated on opposite sides, then you won't be able to reconcile them; you will have to join either ones or the others, there is no third option.
